Coolidge Party Returns to Washington Elated Over Convention Reception

STOPS AT ST. LOUIS

Racine Drum Corps, Champion for Three Years, Makes Big Hit at Omaha

Omaha, Neb., (AP)—No matter what the fate in committee of proposed resolutions regarding Colonel William Mitchell, the army's "in bad" critic of the nation's air service, indications were strong Wednesday that the subject of adopting an official attitude towards the colonel would be taken to the floor of the American legion's seventh national convention for a decisive contest.

The Rev. Joe Mike Lonergan, of Illinois, national chaplain of the legion, Tuesday night was chosen by the Oregon delegations to take the place of the state's delegate-at-large,
who did not come to the convention.
Chaplain Lonergan is known as a man of strong convictions and a powerful orator. He also is known to be a strong supporter of Col. Mitchell.

After the gala occasion of Tuesday when the legion laid aside its work to hear an address by President Calvin Coolidge and to march in a colorful four-mile parade before the chief executive, a perfunctory program was set for Wednesday for six addresses by high ranking army and navy officers and two civilians and three committee reports.

Apparently the big points for le-spectators thought the group was Mitchell and the election, with the stormy Colonel today decidedly the more important, and the election of national commander deeply involved in the turn the Mitchell matter has taken.

Drum corps, each nattily attired in bright uniforms, received rounds of applause during Tuesday's parade.
The Racine, Wis., corps, for three years champion of the legion, received much favorable comment.

One remarkable feat was that of the Racine post, a group of bronze painted men representing soldiers in action, posed so realistically, despite the bumping and jouncing of the truck which bore them that many spectators thought the group was cast.

ARE HAPPY

President Coolidge's Train Enroute to Washington, Stansberry, Mo., (AP)— President Coolidge was on his way back to the White House Wednesday inspired by the patriotic demonstration he witnessed in Omaha where the American legion convention which he addressed, is in session. Pleased by the enthusiastic reception accorded him and Mrs. Coolidge Tuesday in the convention city, the president saw in a reassuring manifestation of solidarity and potential manpower in America. Repeatedly during the speech he was cheered, and later for two hours witnessed a parade of men and women identified with the legion and its auxiliary.

Late in the day, the president boarded his train for the return trip to Washington, carrying with him the memory of a stirring day and two presentations—a gold watch presented by Washington state delegation to the convention and a "ten gallon" hat, a gift of the Texas legionnaires.

VISITS ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, (AP)—President and Mrs.
Coolidge on their way to Washington from the American legion convention at Omaha left their train here Wednesday for a morning automobile ride and a visit to the zoo.

For an hour Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were taken through the residential and park sections of the city, through Forest park, site of the World's fair of 1904, into the suburbs of Brent-moor and Forest Ridge.

WORLD SOLONS IN LAST SESSION OF CONCLAVE

Washington, D. C., (AP)—The Inter-Parliamentary union conference in final session here Wednesday adopted a resolution calling for an investigation of economic barriers between European nations with a view to their ultimate extinction.

BIG CROWD SEES FIRST BIG GAME ON PLAYOGRAPH

Despite the chilly weather Wednesday afternoon, a large crowd gathered in the Y. M. C. A. tennis court to witness the first baseball game of the World series between Pittsburgh and Washington as portrayed on the Post-Crescent Playograph. Seats were provided for about 1,500 persons.

The game started at 1 o'clock and all the games of the series will start at the same time. No admission is charged and everyone is welcome to attend. The grounds are entered through a gate on W. Lawrence-st.

CENTRAL WEST MAY SEE SNOW BY WEEK'S END

First Snowfall of Year Is Reported in Western Wisconsin and Minnesota

Chicago, (AP)—While surcease from shivers is promised the far west Wednesday, the wheat belt looks for its first snow and the eastern sections may expect later in the week temperatures approaching frost.

There is five inches of snow in Lead, S. D., the white blanket in Casper, Wyo., is three inches thick and elsewhere east of the continental divide it averaged down to an inch.

Heavy rains are reported over a storm area in the Rocky Mountain section reaching as far south as New Mexico and Arizona. Hundreds of men are repairing landslides and washouts along the Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad near Grand Junction, Colo., near where a locomotive plunged through a rain weakened bridge Tuesday seriously injuring two trainmen.

Storm warnings remain displayed on central and eastern Lake Superior and northern Lake Huron, though mostly fair weather is predicted for the lake regions.

FIRST SNOW

Milwaukee—Bright sunshine greeted Milwaukee and vicinity Wednesday morning, while other sections of the country felt the first snows of season or drenching rains.

The mercury dropped over Wisconsin last night and stood at 38 above the weather bureau reports.
Snow, however, reached out in the direction of Wisconsin Tuesday night reports from Virginia, Minn., being that a light snow fell which vanished as it struck the ground.

TWO TEACHERS MEETINGS HELD AT SUPERIOR TODAY

Superior, (AP)—Superior was host Wednesday to two conventions of teachers, which are expected to draw a total attendance of more than 700 persons.

The first one is that of Douglas-co school boards and teachers, which opened at 9 a. m. Sessions will be conducted throughout the day, with prominent educators appearing on the program.

Wednesday evening at Lake Superior association will hold a banquet. The teachers will hold their business sessions Thursday and Friday. Public schools in the city and county will be closed.

Young Soprano Marvel Is Unbowed And Unpainted

New York, (AP)—Miss Marion Talley, unbowed soprano from Kansas City, who has achieved a Metropolitan Opera contract at the age of 18, likes to cook. Her preference is for layer cakes, but she will boil potatoes or fry chicken with nearly as much pleasure.

Three years ago, when she was given a tryout at the Metropolitan which led to a contract after study, she wore her auburn hair in curls.

"But I've had to do it up now because I'm getting older," she says.
"I don't intend to bob it. For one thing, I might get in hot water at home."

Her mother, Mrs. C. M. Talley, who

AMERICA NOT REPUBLIC IT WAS INTENDED

Frank Tells Women's Convention Nation Is Drifting Toward Democracy

Green Bay, (AP)—Address and discussion stressing outdoor art and the removal of advertising signs which mar natural beauty, were the principal points of interest in Wednesday's program of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs, in session here.
The forenoon session was given over to reading of common and district chairman reports.

The convention opened Tuesday afternoon and following addresses of greetings and officers' reports, Mrs.
Marx Oberdorfer, Chicago, delivered an address, Music in the Home.

Mrs. Oberdorfer emphasized the part radio had played in bringing music into the home, and the general uplifting influence it had had on music in general. She said that it was her belief that popular music has made great improvement in the last two years, and that as a result of this, dancing had improved also. The day of extreme jazz and obscene music was passing, she declared.

In the evening the convention banquet was held, the program being under the direction of the arts and drama department. An address by Dr.
Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, concluded the evening.

In his address Dr. Frank said American leaders and statesmen will some day refuse to be mere instructed messenger boys, and the American people will be driven back to the conclusion that the basic principles of republic are the soundest principles.

"America has slowly been drifting away from a true republic toward a democracy," said Dr. Frank, after defining a democracy as a government of "instructed delegates" and a republic as a government of "selected representatives."

"The basic idea of American government was that of a republic," Dr.
Frank continued. "But we have been slowly encroaching on the right of the leader to lead."

Taking as a general subject the requisites of an educated man, President Frank listed fourteen "attitudes" that he thought should be expected of a truly educated person. Among them were "an autocratic attitude toward ancestral traditions, a republican attitude toward government, a scientific attitude toward discontent, and a cyclical attitude toward uplift, combined with an aristocratic attitude toward work."

"Speaking of ancestral traditions," Dr. Frank said, "whenever any one lets himself be dominated by a political party, religious sect, or any other social group," he is letting himself be swayed by the ancestral "ghost" of the savage "tribal rule."

NEED RESEARCH

Madison—Freedom of research must be assured at the University of Wisconsin, Dr. Glenn Frank, its new president, told the faculty in a statement which was made public Wednesday.

"We must assure to the research of this institution as nearly complete freedom as is humanly possible in an organized society," he said, "and as I see it, freedom of research in this institution implies freedom from the influence and dictates of organized politics."

Coolidge Threatens To Ask Congress To Break Up U. S. Shipping Board

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1925, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C.—Hitherto unpublished correspondence between President Coolidge and Chairman O'- Connor of the United States shipping board is disclosed revealing that the president entered into understandings with prospective appointees whereby they were to agree to carry out certain policies.

Members of the board now have voted not to carry out the president's program because they say it is a violation of law and contrary to a provision of the constitution which vests in congress alone the power to dispose of public property.

The president's letter is dated June 25 and is in answer to a lengthy explanation from Chairman O'Connor telling him why the board could not give Admiral Palmer the power desired by the chief executive. Mr. Coolidge addressed his letter to the shipping board. It reads in part as follows:

"Gentlemen: Some few days ago I requested Chairman O'Connor to lay before me in writing the plan which your board contemplated putting into effect in order to bring your expenditures within your appropriation for the coming fiscal year. He has brought me a letter which does not give me this information. In fact, I do not understand the purport of the letter. I understand when Admiral Palmer was appointed to be president of the Fleet corporation that he was to have a free hand in its operation and it was on that understanding that I opposed any legislation interfering with your board and have appointed several members to the board with the idea that this understanding would be carried into effect. That is what I want to have done."

"On the other hand, I want the most complete cooperation and harmony between the fleet corporation and your board. I want you to comprehend that I wish you to act as a business organization and, laying aside all politics, all work together for the success of our shipping operation.
I know you are in a difficult situation.
Congress has made a certain appropriation and no one can criticize us for living within it. If we do not do so, there will be much criticism within and without congress."

The board since cut Palmer's salary from $25,000 to $8,000 instead of cutting down, as the president wished, some of the other expenses of operation of ships. The viewpoint of the board is reflected in the letter written to President Coolidge on June 24 by Chairman O'Connor. It reads in part as follows:

"Dear Mr. President: Agreeable to our conversation a few days ago, I am submitting more in detail my views on the work of the shipping board with particular reference to the operation of the government-owned fleet of merchant vessels. It is obvious that the importance of and need for the exercise of the regulatory functions of the board is minimized as long as practically all the merchant vessels engaged in our overseas trade are those owned and operated by the government itself. The tremendous task of liquidating the assets and war debt of the present board is being confronted has been well completed, at least as far as can be expected for some years to come."

"So that at present the problem is reduced to one of efficient and economical operation of a minimum number of vessels in the necessary foreign trade routes. This is most important now in view of the desirability of meeting the reduced appropriation without, if possible, reducing the present small number of vessels; since we are already carrying only about one-fourth of our foreign commerce instead of the major portion thereof as mandated by congress."

The chairman then points out that in 1921 the same plan of separating the Fleet corporation so it would report to the shipping board members as a board of directors was tried and failed. In deference to the wishes of Mr. Coolidge it was tried a second time. Mr. O'Connor continues:

"On Jan. 11, 1924, Admiral Palmer was made president of the Emergency Fleet corporation and has been given all possible latitude without interference by the board to bring about improvements and economies which it was plain to the board should have been made in the light of experience during the previous three years and the definite developments with respect to possible transfer of the ships to private capital."

"The shipping board is responsible for the efficient and economical operation of the government's merchant fleet, and therefore the board must be recognized by those through whom it operates as being in full and final authority at all times. In other words the president of the fleet corporation must recognize the jurisdiction of those whom he derives his authority;
and there should be the closest cooperation between the board as the policy-making body and the president of the fleet corporation as its ministerial officer."

The situation today is the same as outlined in Mr. O'Connor's letter in June except that the president has requested the resignation of one member of the board and is threatening to ask congress to abolish the shipping board.

SLAYER OF SWEETHEART FACES MURDER CHARGE

Superior, (AP)—District Attorney
John Bernard of Bayfield-co Wednesday said that a murder charge would be laid in all probability be placed Wednesday against Jordan McCann, as a result of the death of Mrs. Etta Ward Roe, who died Thursday night from gunshot wounds received a week ago in her cabin on Bony Lake.

The statement of the prosecutor follows an examination of McCann at a local hospital, where McCann lies with a shattered left arm, resulting from the same shooting affray in which Mrs. Roe lost her life.

While refusing to disclose details of the confession which he said was obtained from the wounded man Mr.
Bernard said the evidence justified securing of an indictment.

AID RESIGNS WHEN PALMER IS REMOVED

Vice President of Fleet Corporation Protects Superior Board's Action

Washington, D. C., (AP)—Hutchinson, D. C., vice president and general manager of the fleet corporation submitted his resignation to the shipping board Wednesday in protest of its action in removing Leigh C.
Palmer as president.

The shipping board, Mr. Cone said,
"openly defied" President Coolidge when it sheared the fleet corporation several days ago of the wide powers given to it at the instance of President Coolidge and it also ignored the president when it removed Mr. Palmer before the inquiry of H. C. Dalton, appointed to study the situation,
had been completed.

"Without regard to other considerations," Mr. Cone said, "I cannot as a retired naval officer, serve any organization that defied the wishes and policies of the president of the United States."

Mr. Cone who is a retired rear admiral, took office with the corporation soon after Mr. Palmer was made president nearly two years ago, and has been regarded as one of the latter's right hand men.

Elmer E. Crowley, who was elected president of the corporation to succeed Mr. Palmer, arrived from New York Wednesday where he had been managing operator of the American export line, and at once took the oath of office.

Leigh C. Palmer, once storm center of the widening breach between the shipping board and the White House was a figure of the past in the board's turbulent history.

REJECTS PROFFER

Having declined the office of vice president in charge of European affairs of the Fleet Corporation after it had oust him as corporation president, an office in which he has been consistently supported by President Coolidge, Mr. Palmer Wednesday was viewing as a casual observer the trend of affairs which Tuesday brought a summary end of his official services.

Elmer E. Crowley, of Boston, elected by the board to succeed Mr. Palmer, was expected in Washington Wednesday. Developments now with Mr.
Palmer's removal appear to leave the shipping board situation as one to be dealt with by congress. Mr. Coolidge is known still to favor one-man operation of the fleet, as under the regime of Mr. Palmer, but whether it will be proposed to congress that the shipping board be abolished and the fleet corporation set up as an independent organization has not been indicated.

ASKS BLAINE TO OUST SHERIFF AT LACROSSE

Madison, (AP)—Petition for the removal of office of Sheriff W. H.
Ristow of LaCrosse-co has been filed with Governor Blaine by E. W.
Guenther, member of the LaCrosse county board of supervisors.

The petition charges that the sheriff had presented claims for board for alleged prisoners who never had been incarcerated and that he had collected and retained more than $1-000 in fees which should have been turned over to the county treasurer.

BOARD JUMPER HELD BY POLICE

Lester P. Harris Is Prevented from Departing Out of City Without Paying

Lester P. Harris, alias "Bud" Harris, was arrested early Wednesday morning by Detective-Sergeant McGinnis as he was about to board a train for Chicago without having gone through the formality of paying a bill which he owed the Hotel Northern.

Harris left the hotel about 1 o'clock in the morning with bag and baggage without meeting the hotel clerk on his way out. Everything pointed to a hasty departure without any difficulty, but the young man failed to take into account the fact that his clerk had aroused suspicions of the action earlier in the day. He had asked the police to apprehend Harris should he attempt to make his exit from the city.

When Harris went to the depot he met Detective Sergeant McGinnis, and instead of boarding the train the youth returned to the police station with the officer.

He was to have appeared in Municipal court Wednesday.

STATE CHURCH BODY FAVORS BOARD FUSION

Congregational Delegates
Here Want Missions Conducted by Two Boards

Indorsement of a proposal to consolidate the thirteen Congregational missionary boards into two in the interest of more efficient work was given by the Wisconsin Congregational conference in a motion passed Wednesday morning at the state session here. The gathering, with approximately 400 delegates present, is in its third day and will adjourn at noon Thursday.

Action of the Wisconsin conference will be communicated to the National Council of Congregational Churches when its annual meeting is held in Washington Oct. 20 to 25. The board of directors of the state body made a study of the consolidation proposals and its recommendation to the conference approving the step was accepted.

Missionary activities now are conducted by 13 societies working under

Two Seymour young men who attended sessions of the Wisconsin Congregational conference here Tuesday staged quite an amusing incident in their desire to be sure they would get all the "thrills" of being delegates.

The youths applied at the registration table at the First Congregational church after the close of meetings Tuesday night for lodging for the night at some home. They were provided with quarters but announced it would be very late before they would reach the place, although bedtime was at hand.

Attendants of the booth inquired the reason and learned that each young man had brought his girl along from Seymour and they had to take the girls home. They then drove to their home town with the young women and then came back to Appleton to sleep.

the national council, each with its separate organization and separate handling of funds. The proposals which will be up for action at the national council will be to create one board for foreign missionary work and one for home missions. Combined assets of all of the 13 amount to $50,000,000. They expend $5,000,000 annually in maintenance of their work. This step is expected to be followed by another merging three publications, the Missionary Herald, the American Missionary and the Congregationalist into one magazine.

ADD NOMINATORS

Two pastors were added to the standing nominating committee by action of the conference Wednesday morning. They are the Rev. William Reese, Dixon, Oaklawn, and the Rev. W. M. Ellis, Budeavor. These names were proposed by a nominating committee previously appointed consisting of the Rev. H. A. Studebaker, Beloit, representing Beloit district association; the Rev. William Lodwick, Sparta, La Crosse association; the Rev. Marvin R. Brandt, Sheboygan, Milwaukee association.

Twelve persons residing outside of the state were made honorary members of the Wisconsin conference because of their service to the organization. They are: Dr. F. J. Dyer, Dr. R. W. Gammon, Chicago, executive secretary of religious education in Wisconsin conference; Dr. Ozora S. Davis, president of Chicago Theological seminary; the Rev. Vinton P. Eastman, Lansing, China, missionary; the Rev. Hubert C. Herring, Boston, social service secretary of the Congregational Education society; the Rev. Wynn Fairfield, Taiku, China, missionary; Dr. G. E. White, president Anatolia college, Salonika, Greece; Dr. E. W. Huelster, Chicago, district secretary, American Missionary association; Miss Madeline Gile, Bountiful, Utah, home missionary; Miss Mary B. Ullrich, Chicago, home secretary of Women's Board of Missions of the Interior; Dr. P. L. Hayes, Chicago, western secretary of annuity fund for Congregational ministers.

Reports given before the conference included those of Prof. William J. Mutch, Ripon, Congregational representative on the Wisconsin Christian Education council, and George R. Cady, examiner for Chicago Theological seminary. The latter was read by Mr. Chapman in the absence of Mr. Cady. Activities of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league were recorded in the report of the Rev. W. J. Jones.

HOLD SOCIAL

Delegates were entertained at a fellowship social Tuesday afternoon in the church basement under the Rev. Frank J. Scribner of Janesville, in charge. One feature of the entertainment was songs by the conference quartet consisting of the Rev. W. R. Dixon, the Rev. Edwin Phillips, the Rev. William J. Davis and J. D. Brownell. Refreshments were served by the women of the church.

The report of L. L. Olds, Madison, state treasurer, showed that a total of $93,157.37 had been received at the state office for the first nine months of 1922, and the disbursements were $92,816.91. This left a balance of $371.91. The conference will need $30,334.52 to complete the year, the report said, and churches still had $26,376.14 to pay on their apportionments.

Wednesday's sessions were presided over by the Rev. A. L. McClelland, Rosendale, second assistant moderator. The first assistant is the Rev. O. L. Robinson, Platteville. In addition to the business matters there was a brief talk by the Rev. F. C. Braxton, Appleton, secretary of the Wisconsin Children's Home society, who told of his work and the care of 119 mothers during childbirth who had no means and otherwise would have been obliged to give up their children.

Dr. H. E. Peabody, Appleton, addressed the conference as chairman of the state industrial relations com-

CHURCH PAGEANT AT 8:15 TONIGHT

Historical Production of Congregational Jubilee Will Be Held at Chapel

The historical pageant which will be presented by the First Congregational church as part of its seventy-fifth anniversary observance is to start promptly at 8:15 Wednesday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel. The public is invited and no admission is to be charged.

Rehearsals were completed Monday night and everything is in readiness for staging the production with a large cast. The episodes will be of especial interest to large numbers of persons, because they deal with local events and many of those taking part are in the roles of well known settlers of the early day in Appleton.

Development of the First Congregational church from the day of its inception in 1850 to the present represents the plot of the production. The first scenes are in wooded land where the Indians were numerous and in the buildings where the organization meetings were held. Others are in the church itself and the last two episodes depict missionary work which is being conducted by the congregation in Japan and in the south.

HOPE TO LEARN FATE OF MISSING AVIATOR TODAY

Clarion, Penna.—(AP)—Confidence of the fate of Charles H. Ames, missing airmail pilot, will be known within the next 24 hours was expressed Wednesday as the searches took to the air and the woods for their sixth day's hunt for the lost flyer.

Five companies of national guardsmen, were ready to take up the work Wednesday with the other hundreds of volunteers who for five days have scaled the precipices and tramped through almost impenetrable places without finding a trace of Ames or his plane. The five troops comprising nearly 500 men were mobilized at the request of Governor Pinchot and arrived here Tuesday night.

The fleet of aeroplanes which has been cruising over a 25 mile course to the westward and covering an area approximately 10-miles wide also was augmented. Instead of 10 or 12 machines which have been covering a total of approximately 7,000 miles a day, the fleet Wednesday consisted of 16.

ENTER UNIQUE PLEA FOR FARM IN RAIL INQUIRY

R. G. Wort Describes How Commission in Chicago
Was Startled by Badger
Brief

Wisconsin railroad commission made history in presenting its arguments before the interstate commerce commission in Chicago last week concerning the proposed increases in eastern class freight rates, according to R. G. Wort, traffic manager of Appleton Chamber of Commerce, who was present at the sessions. The case of the farmer was presented in a manner never known before in traffic circles.

Mr. Wort spent Friday and Saturday at the hearings. These two days were set aside for Wisconsin and there was a large volume of testimony introduced to show how hard this state would be hit if very much was added to its freight bill.

The state railroad commission engaged an expert to prepare a brief on behalf of the Wisconsin farmer and the greatest industry here, that of dairying, Mr. Wort said. A volume of many pages was the result, in which the farmer's income, profits, expenses, value of his crops and other data were set forth in liberal detail. It was considered one of the most exhaustive ever made. Graphs and charts accompanied the record. The information was so thorough that examiners of the interstate commerce commission openly commented upon it when set before their eyes.

While it was not the province of the commission to take sides on the rate question the federal rail regulating body was supplied with facts which cannot help but form a sure basis for any action that is taken. This step was taken largely because of the so-called Hoke Smith bill before congress allowing flexible rates on agricultural products.

Mr. Wort is of the opinion that it will be many months before the interstate commission makes its decision on the rate plea of the railroads. The investigation order was issued on May, 1924 and the taking of testimony has just been finished. Testimony of more than 80,000 typewritten pages has been recorded and it will take some time to go through this maze of arguments.

Outagamie-co had a minor part in the activities of the state prohibition forces this year, it is seen from a state report on liquor cases.

Of a total of 1,200 arrests made in Wisconsin for violation of the state prohibition laws, this county furnished only 14 cases. Four of this number are still pending. Fines for these offenses totaled $750 which the county must turn over to the state.

Fines totaling $65,175 were collected in the entire state. Two hundred fifty cases in Milwaukee-co contributed $19,000 in fines. Winnebago-co collected $1,000, and Brown-co $6,350. No liquor arrests were made by state officers in Burnett, Pepin, Pierce, Rusk, St. Croix and Trempealeau-cos.

GREEN BAY TO CONSULT SCHNEIDER ON BRIDGE

Congressman George J. Schneider, Appleton, will be asked to confer with Green Bay city officials soon on that city's project of erecting a bridge across East river at the east end of Walnut-st. The difficulty confronting the city in connection with this project is that a drawbridge such as is now demanded by the war department would be too expensive for the amount of service which the structure would give the community. On the other hand, a bridge without a draw or lift is prohibited because the river is defined as navigable. One councilman has proposed that the upper part of the river at this point be condemned as unnavigable.

FIX NEW WATER RATE ON SERVICE OUTSIDE OF CITY

Water Commission Asks Permission to Fix New Assessments on Non-resident Consumers

A special rate for water consumers living outside the city limits was fixed by the water commission at a recent meeting, and a request was sent to the railroad commission that permission be granted the city to charge this rate hereafter.

The exact rate was not divulged by the commission but will be announced immediately upon word from the railroad commission. It is understood that the rate is slightly higher than at present, however.

In making the change, members of the commission held that, although the city is glad to furnish water to residents outside the limits wherever possible, it is not fair to city residents if the same rate is charged to all.

A number of homes outside the city limits now are connected with the city water system and many more requests by non-residents for water have been received. It is not likely that the commission will take any action, however, until word has been received from the railroad commission.

DR. STRESEMANN'S ILLNESS

Europe is agog over rumors that an attempt has been made to poison Dr. Stresemann, the German foreign minister. The stories are denied by the German delegation at Locarno, Switzerland, members of which say such an act would be impossible as every precaution has been taken to protect the life of the foreign minister, even to the bringing of a cook from Germany and the inspection of every bit of food served to Dr. Stresemann. These stories recall the days of the Borgias when poison was the subtle agency by which persons obnoxious to this Italian family were quietly but efficiently removed from the scene.

Perhaps someone with a flair for the sensational started the poison stories about Dr. Stresemann at Locarno. Times were dull and news scarce. The securities conference was lagging and it looked as if everything would pass off without a ripple, with nothing to entertain the delegates and the onlookers. So this imaginative person concocted the poison tale to give them a thrill and help out the correspondents assigned to the conference. Now that this story has created consternation in certain political circles and no doubt accomplished its purpose, it might be well to ask what the motive for such an act would be. An analysis of the situation fails to bring any to light. Dr. Stresemann is not the arch figure in the German embroglio, therefore why should anyone try to do away with him? Of course, some political fanatic might get the misguided idea that his death would help Germany, but no sane man can take this view. Dr. Stresemann is one of the ablest men in the Teutonic republic and his removal would be a serious blow not only to the security conference, but to the welfare of Germany. His loyalty to the republic is unquestioned and there still remains much work to be done which only a man of Stresemann's abilities can do and do well and to the best interests of Germany.

OUR STUDENTS HAVEN'T CHANGED MUCH

Miss Hamilton, dean of women in the University of Michigan, says there are "too many girls in college," and that many of them "have no deep-rooted respect for learning."

To be sure! The same might be said of college boys. There are too many of them in college who have no deep-rooted respect for learning, and who might get more education by going to work.

The only error these complainants make is to assume that this situation is new.

In quantity, of course, it is. There were never so many college students, good, bad and indifferent.

But don't imagine that in the days when students were fewer they were all of the studious class.

Read "The Education of Henry Adams." Or ask any old "grad," who remembers his college life of thirty, forty or fifty years ago, and perhaps recalls what his father told him of conditions of a still earlier generation.

There were careless students, stupid students, useless students, boozing students, then as now, and they looked down on the earnest students as topologically as now.

In fact, there was more drinking, more immorality, and more snobishness in the colleges of the last generation than there is in the universities of today.

The evils complained of are real. But they are not new.

They are merely supposed to be new because the enormous increase in attendance has brought a generation of students most of whom have no family tradition of college life.

Because they and their parents come in contact with these things for the first time, they suppose they exist for the first time.

RADIO

"I never thought I would live to coax a grand organ recital out of something about twice as large as a cigar box," says George Ade.

That sentence well expresses the amazing development of radio in this country during the last few years. It is typical of the way American business develops something the public wants.

At first it was necessary to string wires on top of your house, fool around with three or four dials and have unsightly batteries, wires and loud speakers in your home.

But the newest sets have no aerial, no batteries, visible or invisible, one dial control and everything contained in one beautiful cabinet that makes an attractive piece of furniture.

But radio development is far from perfection. It is almost certain that still more amazing changes will be made.

It may be only a short time until the music of the famous cathedrals of Europe or the sing-song melodies of the orient will be heard by the Kansas farmer whenever he wishes to turn on the radio.

NEW YORK ART CENTER

London papers comment bitterly on recent art sales which threaten to make New York an art center, by sheer force of money, as against the ancient centers of culture. What right has mere money, gained by the luck of war, to shift the center of gravity of art and culture also?

It is a common complaint, but a forgetful one.

The galleries, and even the great homes of England, are full of masterpieces of Italian, Spanish and Flemish art. How did they get them? By money, and the fortunes of war, in former generations.

The foundation of every aristocracy, of every art movement or collection, of all the things which afterward look down on "mere money" has always been wealth. The only time wealth is "vulgar" is when it is new.

If we do to England by wealth a small part of what England did to Spain by wealth, our descendants may be the ones to despise the vulgarity of some later people rich enough to do the same thing to us.

THE GIRLS

Announcement that Flo Ziegfeld is going to supervise a film production of one of his revues recalls the oft-repeated statement that he "glorifies the American girl."

Mr. Ziegfeld provides excellent entertainment; but can't we refrain from making that particular statement about him? In the first place the American girl doesn't need glorifying. She is the prettiest, finest, bravest and most intelligent girl that ever lived, even if you do hear a lot about her faults every so often.

And then, too, we doubt if the ladies of the Follies chorus are quite the ones to glorify her. Unless, of course, your idea of perfect young womanhood includes complete sophistication to the point of cynicism, and the flashy type of beauty that is out of place anywhere except under the brightest kind of lights.

Fast living is lots of fun until you hit a sharp curve.

A big family keeps a man so busy he hasn't time to worry as much as he really should.

Raise your children like noxious flowers and they will blossom out into blooming idiots.

The flower of American manhood is self rising.

You never really know how lucky or unlucky you are.

People who can't play any kind of music have to relieve their feelings by telling their troubles.

The real trouble with all narrow minded people is they are too narrow minded to realize it.

Electric fans will blow about anything. So will some people.

Knees don't attract half as much attention as they once did.

Be interested in your self alone and you alone will be.

Sunburn brings the skin you hate to have touched.

If you have a checkered career it's always your move.

JUDGE GARY DISCOVERS SOMETHING

According to the papers, Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the U. S. Steel Corporation declares he has been a fairly strong man all his life and that he never had a cold until he was eighteen—in fact he didn't know what it meant. Well, I can believe that last part. In fact I doubt whether the Judge knows what means even now. He goes on to boast a little, according to the papers. He says he worked hard, slept outdoors, was often caught in the rain and drenched, but he was never bothered with catching cold.

But that isn't the Judge's discovery. I could have told him that of course a man can't catch any disease in that way. I've been trying to tell him so for about twenty years, but I suppose the Judge is one of the many, many people who do not believe all they read in the papers, or who do not read the important things in the papers. But we'll waive all that and let the Judge have the full credit of his discovery. Let him lead up to it in his own way, according to the papers: "I used to cut whatever I chose. Until I was well past twenty I never needed the services of a dentist. I haven't needed them very often since. Diet then, was what I wanted to learn. I could wish that I knew as much about foods in my early boyhood as I learned in my two weeks' stay at the hospital. Most of us eat too much. Especially we eat that which is not of benefit, but is a dead weight and injurious." And in the same interview Mr. Gary specifies ice cream and pie for dessert, for instance.

The Judge's discovery is the fact that most of us eat too much. Dr. William Osler discovered the same thing forty years ago. Another doctor whose name I will omit lest somebody accuse me of egotism, rediscovered it twenty years ago. A guy by the name of George Cheyne discovered it over two hundred years ago. An Italian named Cornaro discovered it 400 years ago.

But if Mr. Gary enjoyed such good health as a boy and kept his teeth so well it must be that he had the right diet, that is, he right diet for a growing boy. That would not be the right diet for a man of years who does no work and lives by his wits. Ice cream and pie for dessert are absolutely good healthful nourishing digestible food for a live boy or girl; they may not be the best dessert for a man of ample years and no real work to do. The normal, healthy, active playing or working boy or girl breaks no rule or law of hygiene in ordering pie a la mode for dessert, if hungry for that combination. The boy's or girl's mature, sodate or inactive father or mother, however, scarcely has any real use for the additional calories yielded by such dessert. The habit or desire or appetite for such superfluous food grows on one, and it is wise to curb it, when one attains maturity even if one has to go to a hospital to have the curbing done, as did Judge Gary. The boy and girl in their earlier teens ought to eat rations around father or mother, as a rule, for the young ones need not only a maintenance ration for ordinary wear and tear and constant muscular energy, but must also stoke considerable fuel to provide for the demands of growth, a business from which father and mother have permanently retired.

One thing Mr. Gary discovered seems nearly right to me. He says every human being should go to a hospital to be checked up periodically. He specifies a hospital probably because it was a hospital that he came across the doctor who inspired these discoveries. Let's not clutter up the hospitals with well folks, what's the matter with the privacy of one's doctor's office or one's own home for health examination?

By ARNOLD MULDER

A POET WITHOUT A "LIFE."

There died nearly 40 years ago in the little town of Amherst, Mass., sent of Amherst college, a woman who has begun to appear during the last few years as one of the finest poets America has produced but whose personality was so elusive that to millions the means nothing. Her name was Emily Dickinson and to those who know her work at all that name spells true poet.

Emily Dickinson is the only example I can recall of a poet who literally wrote purely for self expression and with no idea of ever having the public read her poetry. Almost without exception all writers either consciously or unconsciously have the reading public in mind when writing their stuff. But Emily Dickinson not only did not have the public in mind when she wrote but she had such a horror of strangers reading what she had written for her own amusement for the amusement of a small circle—a sister-in-law, two or three very intimate friends—that she left orders to burn all her manuscripts at her death. During the whole of her life she consistently resisted all attempts to have any of her poems printed, although two or three times friends purloined a poem and had it printed without her knowledge.

SAVED THEM ANYWAY

Fortunately her family in this one instance disregarded her last wishes. They could not bring themselves to destroy forever what they knew to be great poetry and so Emily Dickinson's work was finally given to the world. Most of her letters however were burned in accordance with her wishes although those that remain show that they too were often pure literature.

During the past few years Emily Dickinson has won what almost amounts to a popular reputation but it is significant that there is always something shadowy about that reputation in the public mind. The general public's conception of Miss Dickinson is not clearcut. The reason probably is because Emily Dickinson consistently avoided personal publicity all her life. She was inordinately shy and she lived almost like a recluse in her father's house in Amherst. She hardly ever left the shelter of the family orchard and never saw anyone except a very few intimate friends and these rather seldom.

It is a fact that often great reputations are built up and maintained on personal items about the author's life rather than on his work. Millions know anecdotes about Mark Twain who have never read his books. But Mark Twain was a picturesque person who gloried in personal publicity and encouraged it. But Emily Dickinson is almost literally a "poet without a life," that is, there are no incidents in her life out of which a biography can be constructed.

A relative a year or so ago attempted a biography of the poet and made use of all the known facts and incidents that she could lay hands on. As a result the book has the effect of being greatly padded to fill space, but even then it covers only about a hundred pages of large type that can be read in an hour or two. To make a volume a number of Emily Dickinson's letters had to be inserted.

All the essential facts about Emily Dickinson's life can be told in a page or at most two pages. There was only one episode that has some dramatic quality—a love affair with a man she could not marry because he already had a wife. But the rest there is nothing except a trip to Washington, a stay in Philadelphia, an absence from home to attend a girl's school. All the rest of the years of her life were passed behind the thick hedges of her father's garden, baking doughnuts for her nephews, cultivating flowers in her little conservatory, reading, playing the piano, occasionally receiving the visit of a close friend, writing innumerable letters, keeping in touch mentally with the affairs of Europe and America but never getting in personal contact with life.

It is a life that is far from the modern ideal of getting into the thick of things but it gave America a true poet and that is all that really counts.

THREE HURT, TWO CARS WRECKED IN CRASH NEAR DALE

Two Women and a Man Taken to Hospital After Cars Collide at Road Intersection

A collision on highway 18 about six miles east of Dale at 5:15 Tuesday afternoon resulted in the injury of three persons and considerable damage to both machines.

The injured: Mrs. Jack Posey of Milwaukee, fractured pelvis.

Mrs. Fred Walters of Milwaukee, flesh wound over temple.

J. C. Stone of Watertown, flesh wound on left side.

The injured persons were picked up by H. Schroeder, route 2, Appleton, near whose farm the accident occurred, who he put them into his automobile and started for Appleton. He met the Kunitz ambulance on the way to the city and the injured were taken to St. Elizabeth hospital in the ambulance.

Stone's injuries were not as severe as those of the women and he was released from the hospital Tuesday evening. The two women still are confined to the hospital. Mrs. Posey's injuries are considered serious.

The injured persons, together with John Mitchell, proprietor of the Japanese Gardens near Stevens Point, were returning from Appleton where they had taken a friend to catch a Chicago train.

As they approached a highway intersection a short distance west of where highway 26 meets highway 18, they met a small car which drove on highway 18 from the south. The car was owned by John Running of Dale, and was driven by Carl Dagen.

Stone attempted to clear the Ford by turning to the left, but he struck the smaller car a glancing blow, sending it into the ditch, and his own machine went into the ditch on the left side of the road, striking a telephone pole.

The occupants of both cars were thrown out, Mitchell and Dagen escaping injury.

WALLOPS MAN BECAUSE HE INSULTED MOTHER ON GIFTS THROUGH MAIL

Claiming that David Cleveland had been insolent and abusive to his mother, Margaret Jacob, her son Henry Jacob, 304 W. Packard st., said it was worth $12.40 fine to take a crack at Cleveland, and he willingly paid the amount named when arraigned into municipal court Tuesday morning on a charge of assault and battery. Jacob said that Cleveland, who roomed at the Jacob home, had often been insolent to Mrs. Jacob, and had bluntly refused to pay rent. It was said that on Monday when Mrs. Jacob spoke about rent, Cleveland became angry and abusive, and that Mrs. Jacob being frightened, called her son home from work. A hot argument between the two men followed, which ended by Cleveland defying Jacob to hit him if he dared. Jacob took the dare.

GERMANY HAS NEW RULE ON GIFTS THROUGH MAIL

Parcels containing gifts destined for delivery in Germany can no longer be addressed to private individuals but must be addressed to one of a number of organizations which will distribute the articles contained therein at their own discretion among needy persons, according to information received Monday by William H. Zuehlke, postmaster, from W. Leving (the former, second Assistant Postmaster General).

The only exception to the above ruling is foodstuffs, used clothing and washable clothing, which material is usually free of customs duties and may be sent to the address of private persons in Germany if sent for the personal use of the addressee and not for commercial purposes. Pineapples, saffron, vanilla, caviar, cranberry, lobsters and oysters cannot be imported in such packages.

Only two pounds of the following articles may be included in such parcels:

Margarine, confectionery and other sweets not specially named, including unbaked wares with sugar added; that is, trageant wares mixed with sugar; sugared, candied or glazed specks; nuts, fruits and tropical fruits and other plants.

A number of articles are barred altogether from gift parcels.

The list of barred articles includes meat, bacon, furred game, killed, carved or not, but not prepared; hering, salted; grease and grease like fats; hog fat, goose fat, intestinal fat, and other animal fats; beef and mutton; tallow, lard, fish oil, etc.; butter, fresh, salted, or melted; cheese; eggs, raw, or only cooked in the shell; flour, including roasted flour and burnt flour, polished rice; fatty

Gasoline—12 1/4% of Operating Cost

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) contends that gasoline is the cheapest commodity in the world, when considered in relation to the service it gives. It contends further that gasoline is not a major expense in the operation of an automobile.

In support of this contention, we present below, the experience of Mr. Royal S. Kellogg with three different types of cars, as reported in the August issue of Nation's Business. Mr. Kellogg has devoted himself chiefly to cost accounting in the News Print industry. He is a highly skillful enthusiast in arriving at accurate costs.

Operating Cost of Car No. 1—Price $792.90
14000 Miles from July 31, 1915 to Feb. 1, 1918, 11 Cents per Mile
Depreciation	3.0c
Repairs, Upkeep, Accessories	2.6
Tires	2.0
Insurance, licenses, etc.	1.5
GASOLINE	1.5
Garage	.4
Total	11.0c
Operating Cost of Car No. 2—Price $1379.74
13494 Miles from April 19, 1918 to June 30, 1921,
18 Cents per Mile
Depreciation	4.9c
Repairs, Upkeep	4.7
Tires	2.4
Garage	2.4
Insurance, licenses, etc.	1.9
GASOLINE	1.7
Total	18.0c
Operating Cost of Car No. 3—Price $2238.22
33100 Miles from June 30, 1921 to March 13, 1925,
12.7 Cents per Mile
Depreciation	4.9c
GASOLINE	2.1
Insurance, licenses, etc.	1.8
Repairs, replacement, maintenance	1.6
Tires	1.1
Garage	1.2
Total	12.7c

Carrying Mr. Kellogg's computations a bit farther, we find that for the ten-year period, the average operating cost for the three cars was 13.9 Cents per Mile. Of this the cost of gasoline was only 1.7 Cents per Mile, or a fraction less than 12 1/4% of the total operating cost.

It is worth your while to consider these figures with care. We suggest that you keep an actual, detailed record of the cost of running your car. In this way you can know to a certainty how little money you spend on gasoline in relation to the total operating cost.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) continually concentrates the energies and facilities of its great organization on keeping the price of gasoline at a low level, to render the greatest service possible to the thirty million people of the Middle West, and to maintain the quality of its products at a high standard of excellence.

Country Homes Everywhere Being Brightened Up by Music

Music of your choosing that you play with your own expression on a Gulbransen Registering Piano

A. G. GULBRANSEN'S idea in perfecting the Registering Piano was to provide the multitudes with the ability to personally play music. Playing of the piano had been restricted to the few who had the time and ability to learn fingering of the keys. Yet everyone possesses individuality in music to some degree.

In order that every man, woman and child might express their own ideas in music, the Gulbransen Registering Piano was developed. Every other manufacturer had tried to build an instrument that would do what the Gulbransen does—but the Gulbransen alone has been successful. Anyone can play it with personal touch and expression.

Gulbransens are sold everywhere in the United States—in cities and in the smaller districts. If A. G. Gulbransen rendered a service to the city folks when he perfected the Gulbransen Registering Piano, he rendered a double service to those living on farms and in smaller communities.

Where there is less diversion, less daily excitement and, if you please, harder work, there is greatest need of a Gulbransen Registering Piano. There is greatest need of self-expression through the enjoyable medium of Gulbransen music.

Home life on the farm or in a small community is given a new interest, a new thrill through ownership of a Gulbransen Registering Piano. Yet it is a permanent investment, because new music is always available and one improves in mastery of the Gulbransen as time goes on. Indoor nights are coming. It is a logical time to add the Gulbransen to the home equipment.

Try the Gulbransen at our store. An honest product—bearing its maker's name and the National Price at which it is sold—$450, $530, $615 and $700.

WHAT FARMERS THINK OF THE GULBRANSEN

We like our Gulbransen very much. We find that our children get along much better with it than they did with the straight piano, and besides we can all use and enjoy it.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Schroeder, Farmer

I have often thought of the remark you made, that instead of tiring of a Registering piano, it becomes more interesting as one learns to play with their own individuality. We have found this to be true, the better we become acquainted with it, the better music we get, and the better we like it. It is sure a pleasure and an inspiration in our home.

Harry Lewis, Farmer

The music we get from our Gulbransen sounds much different from any player piano we have heard. It does not have that mechanical sound. Alva E. Bateman, Farmer

STATE U. SELLS ITSELF TO STATE, NEW "PREXY" SAYS

New President of University of Wisconsin Talks to 250 Here Tuesday

"The University of Wisconsin must sell itself to the state, instead of its skillful arguments of those connected with or interested in the institution. Adequate protection for the university is assured if we can show Wisconsin that the service performed by its university is admirably worth the millions it cost. And there is no question but that the university will receive adequate protection from the state which fostered it and kept it this long."

It was Dr. Glenn Frank, new president of the University of Wisconsin, speaking at his first public appearance displayed by his audience composed of 200 persons from this city can be taken as a criterion for the future action of the entire state, his prediction will be fulfilled.

GUEST OF ROTARY
Dr. Frank was guest of the Rotarian club at its regular meeting at the Hotel Northern Tuesday noon. Members of other service clubs of the city and alumni of the university were turned out to attend the meeting and invited out almost 100 per cent to meet him.

The last 25 years has been a period of quantitative extension, Dr. Frank declared. The next 25 years must be a period of qualitative development.

He referred to a number of press stories carried by newspapers in the middle west shortly after the announcement of his election to and acceptance of the presidency of the university to the state as a whole and perhaps the legislature in particular.

"The idea that the university must be sold to the state by snappy sales talks is wrong," he said. "The institution must be sold on its merits alone, not by salesmanship."

"I am interested in seeing working out in the future a finer and more realistic type of education which will not only train those on the campus but will help the entire citizenship of the state to attain a good life—a life inspired by love and guided by knowledge."

He stated that the business of selling or reselling the university to Wisconsin cannot be done by hip hip hurrah booster tactics, but by getting nearer to the question, "How can we link learning and life?"

UNIVERSITY GOAL
The goal toward which the university should strive, he described as being a great, dynamic center which would not only give information and serve an influence on the campus, but to all those outside the campus as well. The University has obligations to inject into the state which fosters it, he declared.

He said he was attracted to the position of head of the university not by the sheer mechanical end of its administration, but because of other problems which were apparent. These are, principally, the problem of linking the university and the state which remain unsolved.

He defined an educated person as one who could view problems scientifically; as one who, if he belongs to the majority, can be sportsmanlike enough to side in with the minority when he thinks the minority is right; and one who, if he belongs to the minority, can be courageous enough to accept the viewpoint of the majority if he thinks the majority is right.

"The peace of society demands that the majority control institutions of countries," he continued.

"Progress of society demands that the minority be permitted to direct the discussion of the country. It is only the few who conceive steps of progress. The majority has never yet taken an advance step on its own initiative. The majority hold that the minority should be sportsmanlike. The majority, although it isn't sportsmanlike, should be too."

BAR PROPAGANDA
Dr. Frank said the university does not exist as a propagandist institution to teach any particular religion or theory. It is not its purpose to turn out neatly labeled conservatives, liberals or radicals, but to turn out men with a scientific point of view and with habits of thinking about everything.

An educated man was described by course at the university should be able to face questions as an engineer and scientist," he said. "If he does he will first determine what the facts of the question are and then determine what the 'horse sense' conclusions are. All he wants to know is: are the conclusions genuine?"

An educated man was described by the speaker as one who could be as conservative as the Czar of Russia if he thought a conservative conclusion was correct, or as one who could be as radical as Leon Trotsky if he was of the opinion that the opposite conclusion was proper.

No state, he showed, can have a soundly based life until its people are educated to face life from the viewpoint of the engineer and scientist. The man who, after he reaches a conclusion asks, "does it fit into the prevailing scheme of ideas" is not an educated man. An educated man should "know how to palpitate with the right organ."

He repeated the basic traditions of the university and described them as being entirely worthy and adequate for the future development of the institution.

SUPPORT FOR RESEARCH
"Research activities should be accorded adequate support and absolute freedom," Dr. Frank said. "Without support research workers can accomplish little, and without freedom they cannot do justice to their activities. To secure the best results, they should be allowed to conduct their investigations without fear of interference and be able to publish the results of their

"The university must be kept a genuine home of learning for sound scholarship. This is also one of the traditions of the institution, as I see it, and one without which the university could not develop."

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bismarck Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bismarck Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more acid indigestion. adv.

ELKS WORK OUT PLANS TO HONOR VETERAN MEMBER

Plans are being completed for "Grandpa" Langstad's birthday party Wednesday, Oct. 14 at the Elks club, under the direction of a committee headed by Major Charles Green.

"Grandpa" will be 90 years old in another week, and his fellow Elks don't intend to let such a nausipicious anniversary go by without "throwing a party for Grandpa," which the old G. A. R. veteran will remember to the end of his days.

Speakers for the occasion will include F. S. Bradford and Gustave Keller. Mr. Keller will give reminiscences as he has known "Grandpa" for many, many years, and has been especially intimate with him. The birthday celebration will start at 6:30 with a banquet. In addition to the speeches there will be a musical program, and other surprise entertainment. Just what kind of music will be provided, Major Green's committee is working hard to secure the best there is. A large number of "Grandpa's" friends have been invited to the party.

COMEDY AND PATHOS COMBINED IN FILM

It has been said that to combine comedy and pathos in a film production and not destroy the illusions of the audience requires a truly great artist.

In "The Gold Rush," his great comedy-drama of Alaska in ten parts, now at Elite Theatre, Charlie Chaplin seeks the sympathies in the role of a weakling prospector, a hard luck "sourfough" in the Alaskan wilderness.

One of the most touching scenes is where Chaplin prepares what to him is a banquet, but really is a pitiful attempt at an elaborate dinner, to entertain Georgia, the dance hall girl, and her friends.

His guests fail to arrive and it gradually dawns on him that they do not intend to come and that he is the victim of a ghastly joke.

"The Gold Rush" is now showing at the Elite theatre under a United Artists Corporation release.

A man was one day hunting in the forest. A terrible storm came up. He looked about for shelter, but there was none. It began to rain in torrents. So he crawled into a hollow log. It fitted snugly.
The rain lasted for hours. The water soaked through the wood. The log began to contract. When the storm was over the man could not get out. He strained himself with all his might. But the log held tight. Exhausted he gave up. He knew he would starve to death.
Like a drowning man he saw his whole life flash before him, especially his mistakes. Suddenly he remembered that he had not taken his children to see Harold Lloyd in "The Freshman."
That made him feel so small that he was able to crawl out of the log without further difficulty.

FIND RAISE OF NURSE'S SALARY WAS NOT LEGAL

Previous Action Rescinded at Meeting of School and Health Boards

Kaukauna—At a special meeting of the board of health and education and a committee composed of Mrs. John Reckenfuss, James McEadden and N. M. Haupt, representing the school board, held Tuesday evening in the council rooms, it was definitely decided that the hiring of the city nurse was done by the city council and the school board had no authority to raise her pay.

This makes the raise of $25 per month granted to the nurse at the special meeting of the school board Tuesday, Sept. 21, invalid. The city nurse has indicated she will resign if the raise is not forthcoming. At the time the city nurse applied to the school board for a raise, a committee composed of Mrs. John Reckenfuss and N. M. Haupt was appointed to investigate the work she had been doing and to recommend a raise if the amount of work she was doing warranted it. After an investigation it was decided by this committee that the raise was deserved. When several of the doctors of the city heard that the nurse contemplated resigning they immediately raised a protest declaring that the nurse was doing fine work and plenty of it. They stated that she had helped prevent serious contagious diseases and cured other numerous instances where she had been a great help to the city. This protest also had something to do with granting the raise.

As the salary of the city nurse is paid partly by the school board, the board thought that it had the power to grant a raise and did so. However, on investigation, several of the members of the board decided that they were not sure whether they had the right to grant a raise or not. At the meeting of the school board Tuesday night the action of the board was rescinded until the committee appointed could act.

MENTOR ISSUES DEBATERS' CALL

Large Number of High School Students Expected to Report for Tryouts

Kaukauna—A call has been issued by Olin G. Dwyer, principal of the high school, for those students interested in debate to sign up for tryouts.

Last year Kaukauna high school's debating team obtained second place in the debating league sponsored by Lawrence college. They won one corner of the debate by defeating Chippewa Falls 2 to 1. The affirmative team however, traveling to Fort Atkinson with only two members of their team lost by a 2 to 1 decision. The question for debate last year was "Resolved, The Capital Punishment Ought to Be Abolished."

It is expected that there will be a large number reporting for tryouts which will be held soon. The question for debate this year is, "Resolved, That Congress Should Be Granted Power to Federal Amendment to Regulate the Employment of All Persons Under 18 Years of Age."

The following teachers will be in charge of the debate teams this year: Miss Elizabeth Stiller, Miss Clara Klocknerman, Miss Marjorie Thompson, Miss Ada Shepherd, Hubert Ludwig and Olin G. Dwyer.

BRIDGE WON'T BE READY TILL ABOUT 45 DAYS

Milwaukee Contractor Tells Council Why Construction Has Been Delayed

Kaukauna—William Rinsella, vice president of the Warden Allen company of Milwaukee, the firm which was awarded the contract to build the bridge now under construction at the east end of Wisconsin-ave, explained to the city council, at the regular meeting Tuesday evening, just why the work on the bridge was progressing so slowly.

In the first place, the caving of the foundations last winter caused the first tie-up which upset their calculations, as they had intended to move the large steel girders out over the water and bolt them into position with jacks. The unforeseen misfortune, however, upset the plans and it was close to spring when the foundations were finished, and then it was necessary to wait for the tide dericks which had to be used in raising the girders to their places.

After that the work went along at a rapid speed until now when the concrete is being laid. If the draw had been laid in winter when there was no navigation to interfere with progress, it could have been constructed in its normal position and the work could have gone ahead rapidly. The present delay, which delays the work and throws the erection of the draw into the summer made it possible to construct the draw only when it was in a raised position as then it would not interfere with navigation. This fact makes it necessary for the subcontractors to pour the concrete of the draw while it is up in the air. After that the draw will be lowered and the counterweights will be made. The work will take a much longer time than it ordinarily would if the draw were down in its natural position. It will be at least 45 days before the entire work on the bridge is finished.

The council voted in favor of sending the city seal of weights and measures to a conference of such officers in various cities if such a convention will be held. The convention would probably take place in Madison.

NICK FINK WINS CROWN AT SCHUT

5,000 Persons Attend Diamond Jubilee Celebration at Hollandtown

Kaukauna—St. Francis Schut society of Hollandtown, celebrated its diamond jubilee Tuesday. The society was formed in 1876 and each year it means to shoot at a bird which is lodged on a high pole. The member who is able to shoot the bird off the pole is crowned king and is awarded a medal and blue coat which he is allowed to keep for one year.

At the celebration Tuesday, John Coppes, who has been king for the past five years, furnished the rubber bird at which the members shot. Before Mr. Coppes had a chance to shoot at the bird, the pole on which it was placed broke. Another pole was erected and Mr. Coppes used an old gun which was used by the first man to win the kingship in 1876, because he did not wish to retain the honors longer. The kingship was awarded to Nicholas Fink of Kaukauna, who was given a diamond medal, silver trophy cup and the blue coat. A parade was held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at which all members of the schut dressed in overall jackets and wooden shoes and tied red handkerchiefs around their necks. The wives of members of the schut were dressed in Dutch costumes and also took part in the parade. Thirty-five members took part in the schut which started immediately after the parade. The Rev. ## MANAWA AERIAL GAME BLOCKED BY HIGHS 15-0

New London Eleven Gets in Effective Work in Second Grid Game—Trick Play Works

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The high school football team came out on the long end of a score of 15 to 0, in its second game of the season, played at Manawa with that school Tuesday afternoon. The game was fast and exciting, and was adjudged by local fans to be one of the best for some time.

The fracas started with New London kicking off to Manawa at 4 o'clock. Manawa advanced the ball to the 50-yard line, where the team lost it on downs. New London brought the puckin to Manawa's 50-yard line and lost on downs. Manawa after a fruitless attempt to break through the middle of the line, lost 20 yards when one of her men was tackled behind the line, while attempting to throw a pass. However, the loss was made up a moment later, when Manawa completed a pass for 20 yards, and a pass and run for 40 yards. This placed the ball on New London's 10-yard line, where a fumble, keeping Manawa from scoring, was recovered by New London. This was probably the only time during the game when Manawa seriously threatened to score. New London punted, and Manawa gained 30 yards on end runs and short passes. Edminister intercepted a pass on New London's 15-yard line, and ended the first quarter, the score standing 0 to 0. In the opening of the second period, New London gained 30 yards on end runs and passes, then lost 10 yards when tackled behind the line. A 10-yard pass made on the loss. The Red and White then forced the ball to Manawa's 50-yard line.

USED TRICK PLAY
Here the Manawa line held like a stone wall, and so Charlesworth, New London quarterback, who made good use of his head all during the game, resorted to strategy. The team fell back into a dropkick formation, and with Manawa waiting to block the kick, Ladwig, at right half made a 70-yard pass over the line to Johnson, at left end, who had sneaked back of the line. The pass was complete, Manawa being taken completely by surprise, and the Red and White scored its first touchdown. The kick for point failed, and the score became 6 to 0.

After the kickoff, Manawa was downed on the 60-yard line, and, after missing a long pass, and failing to gain ground on line plunges or end runs, lost the ball on downs. New London was penalized 15 yards for holding, and punted. Manawa was stopped dead on the 80-yard line the man recovering the punt, let line dropped in his tracks. Manawa then punted, and Charlesworth came from the middle of the field up to Manawa's 10-yard line. Here New London was penalized 5 yards for being off side, and after losing some ground, completed a pass back to the 10-yard line. With only half a minute to play before the close of the half, Seims, at fullback for the Red and White, dropped a neat kick between the bars, and made the score 9 to 0. This was the last play of the half.

New London received at the opening of the second half and Seims was dropped on Manawa's 60-yard line. New London then worked the ball up to Manawa's 20-yard line by sailing around at will.

ATTEMPT PUNT
Then, being held for downs on the 20-yard line, the Red and White punted back of the Manawa goal line. Ladwig missed a tackle for a safety, and Manawa's quarterback advanced the ball to the 50-yard line. Manawa punted for 20 yards, and Ladwig, after New London had worked the ball back to Manawa's 5-yard line, fumbled, and Manawa recovered the ball, punting to her own 60-yard line, ending the quarter. In the first of the fourth, New London made 50 yards on 3 end runs, and was held for downs on the 10-yard line. She recovered it again on the 20-yard line.

The Red and White then worked the ball down to the 5-yard line, where a pass was intercepted by Manawa. A long pass by Manawa, started from the 10-yard line, was intercepted by Griswold, one of the new Red and White ends, and he ran 10 yards for a touchdown. The kick for point was blocked, and the score became 15 to 0. The last two minutes of play developed nothing for either team, although Manawa made a desperate attempt to score not getting further than the 50-yard line, however, before the whistle blew.

The game was featured by many and long passes, most of which were completed. The aerial game was opened in the beginning by Manawa, and at first the Red and White was at a loss as to how to meet it. Before long, however, they were onto the methods and were beating Manawa at their own game, even intercepting passes. On Saturday the Red and White will travel to Neenah, where the team expects to play one of the hardest numbers on the ticket.

G. O. P. Looks For Hard Fight To Control Senate

BY CHARLES F. STEWART

Washington.—Young Bob La Follette's big majority in Wisconsin—it was a foregone conclusion he would win but not necessarily by such a wide margin as taken by many as state politicians here are indicating that the G. O. P. will have real fight on its hands to obtain effective control of the next Senate.

The La Follette victory doesn't change the situation at the moment but these political marks whose main occupation is keeping the race to the ground, believe it suggests some other things to come.

Republicans whom the party recognized as such through several of them were too independent to be relied upon much of Republicans by election but led out of the party for insurgent 4 Democrats 40 Farmer Labor 1.

Already the independents in the Republican ranks enable the Democrats and insurgents to override G. O. P. control on important measures but the figures show that if the Republicans should lose only four seats the total strength would be cut down to 47—not a majority.

To begin with the La Follette progressives having proved their ability to roll up 135,000 majority for young

Bob, it's hard to believe they won't beat Senator Lusk in 1926 and but an insurgent—presumably the present Wisconsin governor, John J. Blaine—on the job.

It will also surprise the politicians—administration politicians won't admit it but they'll be surprised never theless—if at the same election Arizona, Maryland, Kentucky and Oklahoma don't choose Democrats in place of the four Republicans who wear their togas now.

That foreshadow five prospectively lost administration seats, which could cut its showing down to 48 instead of 47 if it weren't for the bare possibility that the regulars may manage to substitute one of their own kind for the late insurgent Senator Ladd of North Dakota. This isn't likely but it's possible.

Democratic claims also include Colorado, Indiana, Missouri and New York but Republicans say they are overestimating their strength in these states. The Democrats profess to believe, further, that another insurgent will succeed Ladd that an insurgent will come also from South Dakota and of course that Blaine will beat Lusk.

How the Brookhart-Steck contest ends doesn't matter, as to general results Brookhart, if he wins and runs true to form, will flock with the

DESCRIBES SHOP WORK OF PUPILS

Magazine Article Tells of Carl E. Enger's Success With Polychrome Instruction

Polychrome work done by boys of the Third district schools last year under the direction of Carl E. Enger, manual training instructor, is described in an article in the October issue of Industrial Education magazine, a publication of nationwide circulation. Mr. Enger describes the interest which was developed in manual training work by introducing this unique system of finishing woodwork and gives formulas and other information which other teachers may use in attempting the same thing.

Photographs of some of the best articles made by the grade school boys here are reproduced in the magazine. These include table lamps, bookends, plaques of several sizes and scones. Each stage of workmanship from the rough wood article to the beautifully finished product is shown. Some of the boys were adept at working designs into the polychrome paste, especially for the plaques.

Christmas time was the period when the largest number of polychrome articles were made, Mr. Enger's article says. These made quite desirable and presentable gifts and the school workshop became a very industrious place so the products could be finished on time.

Mr. Enger now directs manual training in the Wilson junior high school, where he expects to develop other ideas to stimulate interest of the boys in shop work.

Ask Dad— See If He Knows

Father and mother are always thinking of your welfare—there isn't a thing within reason they wouldn't do for you. But they may unknowingly have been risking your life every day.

When you are at dinner tonight with dad, ask him this question:

"Dad, is our school firesafe?"

Perhaps he won't be able to answer—he may not know.

Ask dad if he knows that somewhere in the country a schoolhouse burns every day. Ask him if he knows that one-third of all the schoolhouses in the country are nothing better than firetraps—maybe your school is one of them.

Of course dad knows that buildings can be built that will not burn. They are being built everywhere, every day.

If your school is firesafe, you're lucky. If it isn't, ask dad what he is going to do about it. You have a right to know.

The highest type of firesafe construction is concrete. Our illustrated booklet "Concrete Schoolhouses" contains a wealth of information on firesafe construction with which every parent ought to be familiar. Write today for your free copy.

11 BUS LINES IN APPLETON CARRY 2,000 EVERY DAY

Appleton Linked to Nearby Communities by Network of Automobile Bus Routes

Appleton is becoming known as the hub of motorbus lines. There is hardly a city or important village in this vicinity with which Appleton has no existing railroad and interurban facilities. The busses afford the resident and transient an opportunity to travel to almost any nearby community on very short notice.

Motorbuses in their operation over inter-city highways recall to memory the old stage coaches of bygone days. The stage coaches have been eliminated by the steam and electric roads, but automobile busses are here in their place. The extent of their activities is seen in the network of routes throughout the county, each line radiating from Appleton like the spokes of a wheel.

One of the first auto bus lines was one that was established between Appleton and New London about half a dozen years ago. The constant flow of traffic between Appleton and the so-called Twin Cities, Neenah and Menasha, afforded another tempting field. The close proximity of other cities and villages helped in due time to make Appleton a motorbus center.

ESTABLISH DEPOT
Lines began to multiply so rapidly that several concerns conceived the idea of cooperating to maintain a bus depot. Such a depot with waiting rooms, attendant and bus scheduled busses was established in the basement of the Hotel Northern, N. Appleton and W. Washington-sts. and bus owners and passengers have found it a distinct advantage, it is said.

Not all of the bus lines, however, have as yet entered the joint arrangement. Proposal of a bus terminal for all bus lines was made by the late Mayor Henry Reuter during his term of office, and some bus operators are of the opinion that this will be achieved ultimately.

The first busses that were used in this vicinity were of crude and clumsy type, much to the discomfort of the passengers. Competition and other circumstances have brought about a gradual improvement both in cars and bodies, as well as seating comfort and equipment. Skilled drivers, as a rule, are engaged so that, while there have been some bus accidents, they have not been serious, and none of them has resulted in a fatal injury.

ELEVEN BUS LINES

At the present time there are eleven different bus lines operating either in Appleton or to and from Appleton. Their value to the public is seen from the fact that more than 2,000 persons, or one-tenth the population of Appleton ride in them daily, according to an estimate made by an observer. Not all of these are Appleton residents. Neighboring cities contribute their share, traveling salesmen use them and a good many persons from rural territories have come to depend upon them. This is true in summer when the farm automobile is not always available for shopping trips. And it is true in winter when "fluffers" are not equal to the task of pushing through snow laden roads in the manner that high powered busses do.

TRAVEL IN WINTER

Winter time usually finds most of the lines operating off schedule, but last year, being an open winter, was a profitable one for busses. Since the county highway commission keeps the road open between the county asylum and Riverview sanatorium, all winter bus traffic is possible between Appleton and Kaukauna. The road between Appleton and Neenah also is kept clear all winter.

The eleven bus lines operating in and through Appleton are: Two bus lines between Appleton and Neenah, the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co. line and the Homan Auto Bus line; the Traction company line to Kaukauna, the Traction company line to Green Bay; the Froehlich and Graupner line to New London; the Crocker Brothers line to Manitowish; the Ben Lutz line to Seymour and Shawano; the Ed. Doerflinger line to Weyauwega; and Waupaca; the William Reberg line to Kimberly via the north side of Fox river; the Carl Peotter line to South Kaukauna and Kimberly via the south side; the local line of the Fox River Bus Co.

CONSTANT SERVICE

Half hourly service is maintained by the Neenah lines, with busses operating 18 hours a day on the hour and half hour. A similar schedule is used on the Kaukauna line. Busses run hourly to Kimberly via the north side. Local busses operate every 15 minutes around the Colliere-ave. Bennett-st. Wisconsin-ave and Union-st loop. Busses go to Shawano at 7 o'clock in the morning and 5 in the evening, and busses leave Shawano for Appleton at the same hours.

Busses to Green Bay start at 7:30 and thereafter on every odd hour until 7 in the evening leaving at the same hours in Green Bay. There are three busses daily to Waupaca, 6:30, 10:30 and 3:45, leaving Waupaca at 8, 1 and 6. Four busses run daily to Manitowish, 6:15, 9:15, 2:45, and 5:30, with a 7:30, 2:45 and 5:30 schedule on Sundays. The New London line operates busses from Appleton at 9, 12:45, 2:30 and 5:15, leaving New London at 7:45, 10:45, 2 and 6:10 on weekdays while their Sunday schedule is 9, 3:45 and 5:15 from Appleton and 7:45, 1 and 6:40 from New London.

The south side Kimberly line, which will change its schedule soon, runs at 6, 8:05, 12:05, 12:45, 2:30, 3:45, 5:40, 7:05, 9:05 and 10:30 from Appleton with an abridged schedule in use on Sundays and special trips made to the lower Fourth ward Sunday mornings.

FITZMAURICE AT DEDICATION OF ONEIDA SCHOOL

Assists in Consecration of Catholic Institution for Educating Young

Bishop Paul P. Rhode, Green Bay, Wis., and Mr. Fitzmaurice, Appleton, and Mr. F. J. Lochmann, Kaukauna, were among the church dignitaries who took part in the ceremonies dedicating the Guardian Angels boarding school for boys and girls at Oneida last week. It is said to be the only institution of its kind in the middle west.

Bishop Rhode blessed the chapel and preached the dedicatory sermon, speaking on the text, "He who receiveth a little child in my name, receiveth me." High mass was sung by Mr. Lochmann. About 40 clergymen from parishes in the diocese were present.

Although the work of renovating and improving the buildings is not complete, several are ready for occupancy. The chapel, which houses also four classrooms; St. Edward hall for boys and the main building which contains the Sisters quarters, the girls' dormitories and the dining room are practically finished. There remain another hall for boys, the priest's house, the laundry and several cottages for the help.

The ground includes 119 acres of cleared and wooded land. Complete new systems of electric lighting, sewage and plumbing have been installed in all the buildings which are of brick and are adequately protected from fire. About $75,000 has been apportioned for repairs and improvements. The school will have a capacity of 150 pupils.

NEENAH COMPANY CELEBRATES ITS 50TH BIRTHDAY

Wieckert Planing Mill Has Been in Operation for Half a Century

Neenah—Thursday, Oct. 8, marks the fiftieth year of the E. F. Wieckert planing mill in this city. The business was founded by the late E. F. Wieckert, and since his death in 1920 it was conducted by his son, A. H. Wieckert, and grandsons Harold Wieckert and Arthur Kuehner. The son died in 1922 and the business was taken over by Wieckert and Kuehner.

The founder came to Neenah in 1868 and opened up a furniture business in a building where the present Schultz Bros. drug store now is located. He was in business only a short time when a fire swept the property. In 1870 he removed to Connor, Neb., where he engaged in the contracting business, building almost the entire city during his five year stay there.

In 1875 he returned to Neenah and started a planing mill on the land now occupied by the western part of the Neenah Paper Co. Increasing business compelled him to enlarge his buildings and erect a new building where the present plant is located. Work was never stopped for a minute as the new plant was started before the old one was vacated and the mill has run continually since, with shutdowns only on Sunday and holidays.

Fire visited the plant on several occasions but the damage was repaired and the business continued without a hitch. A few years ago branches were started in Underhill and in Appleton, the former plant being sold as Mr. Wieckert's increasing business in the Neenah plant occupied most of his time. The Appleton plant was destroyed by fire.

Three workmen in the factory have been with the company from the start and are still working. They are William Schmidt, Sr., H. Heckrodt and Edward Elv, the latter being with the company since he was 24 years of age.

The present officers serving the company are Harold Wieckert, president; Mrs. A. N. Wieckert, vice president; Arthur Kuehner, secretary and treasurer.

Modern Girl Branded As 'Poor Sport'

BY CYNTHIA GREY

"The trouble with the girls of today," said my friend, the Tranquil Married Woman, "is that they are greedy little pigs."

This was violent language from her, and I paused to see what was coming next.

"They cry for the moon, and when they find they cannot reach it, they run away and sit in a corner and sulk like babies."

"And this," said I, "is apropos of what?"

"Oh, of such silly messes as this," said she, waving the morning paper aloft so that its headlines on the latest society divorce were visible.

"Girls of this sort are greedy," she reiterated. "They expect too much of marriage. And they aren't good losers when they find out the truth."

And pondering her words, I decided that perhaps she was right. The basic trouble with wives today seems to be dissatisfaction with what marriage offers and a longing for fabulous joys that they had expected to find in it.

Perfectly sane and sensible young persons who have learned that life is not a bed of roses, that every road has its traffic cop and that most bungalows have their mortgages, still retain the one illusion that marriage is ideal bliss, unmarred by human frailty.

They expect of marriage what they are too intelligent to expect of any other human institution—perfection.

And when the first breakfast table quarrel occurs or the first forgotten kiss, they spring up in a fury, like bewildered and enraged children, with the cry, "We have been cheated!"

And then, very often, they simply sit down on the job or walk coolly off and leave it, through the doors of the divorce court.

Sometimes they plunge again and again, seeking the ideal happiness which the first marriage denied them. And they become more and more bewildered and wretched in the hopeless search.

Marriage requires good sportsmanship.

Where is a foundation of honest affection, and fairly agreeable temperance on both sides, it offers enough benefits to make up for its disappointments.

It is not perfect. But it is the best thing of its kind that the human race has been able to evolve.

And only a poor sport, having taken a chance and lost, refuses to accept the result of the gamble.

Adventures Of The Twins

THROUGH THE PEBBLE WALL

The Twins tried to move but couldn't. The tiny pebbles on the pebble wall had come rolling down about them until the children were almost buried up to their ears.

To make matters worse, the Bean-Shooter-Man, to whom the wall belonged, came along and read them a lecture on manners, which they didn't like at all.

But finally he rolled up his lecture and put it into his pocket.

"There!" said he. "Too much is plenty. Now tell me about yourselves—where you are going and where you came from and what you are here for. And also how you happened to knock down half my pebble wall without my permission."

"I'm sorry," said Nick. "But we came from home and we aren't going any place unless we can get out of this stone-pile."

The Bean-Shooter-Man looked at him sharply. "Are you poking fun at me?" he demanded. "I hope not. That's the worst manners of all. I'll have to add that to my lecture when I write it over. Now begin all over again."

"We're hunting for Pixie Cave," said Nick. "The Pixies stole the Fairy Queen's golden bee-hive and she hasn't any honey Nancy and I are looking for it. We have the key to the secret cupboard if we ever get there, and we have magic shoes too, that—"

"What!" cried the Bean-Shooter-Man in surprise. "Have you magic shoes?" Then why don't you wish yourselves out of this?"

"We forgot," exclaimed Nancy. So she said:

"Shoes be nimble, shoes be quick. Or here we Twins shall have to stick. Take us over the pebble-wall. We can't stay here any more, at all."

The shoes lifted them right out of the pebble-pile and took them to the top of the wall. But their toes caught, and more pebbles came rolling down, bringing the Twins with them. There they were, just as before, buried to their necks.

"Ha, ha! Ho, ho!" laughed the Bean-Shooter-Man. "It takes pretty strong magic to cross my wall. No one can cross it without my permission. And the only way you may have my permission is to shoot at a mark with my long bean shooter. But first I'll blow you out of that."

So he took his long bean shooter and blew and instantly all the pebbles around the Twins blew away and they were free.

"See the daisies in yonder field?" said the Bean-Shooter-Man to Nick. "Well, take my shooter and blow off the tenth petal on the daisy that stands exactly in the middle of the field."

Nick put some tiny pebbles into his mouth and blew.

"Good!" cried the Bean-Shooter-Man. "It's off!" then to Nancy. "See the star over yonder tree? No? Well, it's there just the same. Blow a hole through the middle."

Nancy took the long pipe and blew.

"Good!" cried the Bean-Shooter-Man. "Right on the bulls-eye! Steady nerves you have, my dear! Now I shall blow by pebble wall in two and you may pass."

So he took the blower and blew long and hard. The pebbles divided, leaving a clear path through which the Twins walked.

HOSE FOR FALL MATCHES DRESS AND FOOTWEAR

Summer saw the vogue of matching hosiery to the costume well advanced. And it was a case of "Good!" or of "Not so good!" with no small amount of emphasis on the latter. It is a proven fact that the idea of blue, lavender, yellow and green stockings does not work out satisfactorily — perhaps because the hosiery never seems to match the thing it was bought to match. There is less variety in these colors because there is less call for them.

But there was just enough of the color scheme satisfactory to give it a start for fall and the dominating idea at present is the matching of the stockings to the dress. Or they may match the shoes. Or again—they may be of the same color but a different shade. And in some instances contrast is made imperative by the color itself. There are so many greens, purples and reds, especially the wine shades, and none of these call for hosiery to match.

Black satin footwear is at its best with costumes developed in these colors and some of the shades take blonde satin shoes with propriety. In selecting hosiery it is necessary to keep the frock, the shoes and all the accessories in mind, although the latter may well be chosen with the hosiery in view. With these very decided colors there is beauty in the gold and silver tones in certain of the nude shades—especially when an undecided tint is desirable: in the blonde shades in the grays, sandal wood and champagne.

With the greens and purples there are certain tones of gray that are very good. A New York shop is featuring a shade of gray known as "Dove" and stressing it for wear with green, advising black satin footwear for the completed outfit. One might add cut steel buckles to the pumps and carry on the harmony. Even with white frocks designed for evening wear the hosiery is not white but silver or what is known as lilac nude. As for black hosiery it just doesn't exist, so far as fashion is concerned.

EFFECT OF RICHNESS

The most interesting new frocks for evening are made of flame or cloth of gold, embroidered, beaded, or accordion pleated.

BLACK AND TAN

The combination of black satin and tan chiffon or georgette crepe is one that is very much favored by sophisticated dressers.

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHON TO BEATRICE SUMMERS CONTINUED

"But I really do like this sort of thing," Sydney Carton said to me, "and I'm having a very nice time."

"If you are, you had better take in your sign," I protested. "What you really look like is the unhappiest man on earth, who, by some strange chance, has strayed into a glorious place inhabited by beautiful hours and consequently has had his misery increased a hundredfold."

"Goodness, is it as bad as that?" Carton said with a shudder. "Who do you think is the most beautiful woman here tonight?" he asked obliquely changing the subject.

"Why, Leslie of course," I answered promptly.

"And the next?" he questioned.

"There isn't any next."

"You're very loyal, Mrs. Atherton."

"No," I answered. "Only discriminating. If you should question me very closely I would probably say that little Miss Ellington would be my next choice. Perhaps, some people would think Zoe the more beautiful but my judgment goes to Leslie. If I could discriminate between them, I would say that Leslie has lived and it has made her more beautiful and Zoe wants to live which is her beautiful appeal."

Leslie has something in her face nowadays, Bee, that she has never had before. You would hardly recognize the spiritual extent of her beauty. There are hints of sorrow, something of temptation resisted, and a character building that seem almost unearthly.

To me, Bee, Leslie Prescott is the one good woman who is not narrow, the one religious woman who is not pious, the one real woman that makes me glad I belong to the sex.

Sydney Carton looked over to where Leslie was talking to a man who was a stranger to me. Again I caught something in her face that I had never seen before an eagerness, a youthfulness of spirit, which made her beauty irresistible.

The man beside me sighed, and he smiled.

"It is sad," he said, "that we know that loveliness, such as Leslie has, must have had some sorrow to give it its most beautiful quality."

"She seems very happy tonight!" Mrs. Atherton. I'm glad she is going back to her old home where her friends are like you, people who understand her. Leslie, I noticed Bee that he hesitated over the name) is very young and very human after all. The next few years of her life will be the crucial ones. God grant he may be happy."

"That sounds marvellous as I write it," said Sydney Carton, "but there were a few more words in the words that made them almost

Washington—Washington's society buds are changing from tea-fighters to toilers.

In stead of dances and dinners, many of the most prominent and popular are now chiefly interested in work and wages.

The majority of these have launched on newspaper careers.

Miss Laura Bryn, daughter of the Norwegian minister, is attached to the society staff of the morning daily.

Miss Dorothy Mondell, daughter of former Representative Frank Mondell, is a newspaper society editor.

Miss Margaret Crosson, daughter of Dr. H. J. Crosson, is an assistant newspaper society editor and her engagement has been announced to Donald Wiley, a newspaperman.

Her sister, Miss Teresa Crosson, is also deserting balls and bridges for a place in the workaday world, although she does not intend to enter the "Fourth Estate."

Instead, she is going to enter a partnership for operating a women's wear shop.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE, INC.

"Where have you been all day?" her mother asked her when she walked into the hot little kitchen at 6 o'clock that night.

"Oh... I don't know. Gadding around town," Gloria answered. "I know I'm dead tired." She dropped down on a chair beside the kitchen table.

Her mother was bent above the gas stove. She was frying live birds for supper.

Her face was flushed. Her hair curled in little damp wisps around her ears. There was a weary droop at the corner of her mouth.

Gloria jumped up. "I'm going to get supper tonight!" she cried. "Just to show you that I can do it! I'll be down in a jiffy!"

She hurried upstairs to the little bedroom under the eaves. It was close and stuffy, although the one window was opened wide, and the muslin curtains looped back.

Gloria ripped off her silk dress, and put on her new bungalow apron. The apron in which she had planned to look so pretty for Dick! She ran down to the kitchen. Her father had come in. He was sitting in his shirt-sleeves beside the door that led to the back porch.

"Today's been a corker, hasn't it?" he asked. "I tell you, I thought I was going to drop dead as I walked across College-ave. this noon. The paper said some fellow died of sunstroke."

"You and mother go out on the porch while I slap this meal together, dad," Gloria said. "Now, come on... you make mother go! You know she thinks no one but herself knows how to do anything."

Mrs. Gordon hung back. "I know you don't know how to cook a meal," she said. "It seems a shame to spoil good food!"

"It would be a good thing if I did spoil it tonight," Gloria answered. "People shouldn't eat anything but salad and green vegetables in weather like this!"

Alone in the kitchen, she set to work. The lettuce was lying in a bowl of water. Gloria cut it up and made a French dressing for it. Mother Gregory had shown her how to mix the oil and lemon juice to silken smoothness.

Gloria wondered what Mother Gregory had ordered for dinner at their house tonight. Would Dick be there with his father and mother? Or would he be dining somewhere or with Susan Briggs?

Gloria wrinkled her forehead. "Well, I can't live like this... worrying myself to death about him all the time. Wondering where he is, and what he's doing," she told herself. "Perhaps May's right. Perhaps I'd be happier if I divorced Dick."

She debated the question with herself as she set the meal on the table. With unseeing eyes she smiled at her mother and father when they praised it.

She was looking far away into the hidden future. What did it hold for a woman who had separated from the only man in the world for whom she cared?

Her mother's voice roused her from her dream. "Oh, I forgot," she said in her slow, soft voice. "A letter came for you this afternoon while you were out. I guess it's from Dick."

Gloria's heart beat. A telegram coming in the dead of night couldn't have startled her more than this letter from Dick.

What was in it? What did he have to say to her?

Her fingers pressed the envelope. There seemed to be several folds of paper within it.

But without opening it, Gloria slipped it into her apron pocket. She could feel the eyes of her father and mother watching her. She knew that they were waiting for her to open the letter... to tell them what Dick had written.

But somehow or other, she wanted to be all alone when she read that letter—

There was just a wild chance that Dick was asking her to come back to him, in it. "And if he wants me, I'll go home this very night!" Gloria promised herself.

She raised her eyes to the cuckoo clock that hung above the sideboard.

Half past seven! In another hour or two she might be in Dick's arms, again!

With an effort she went on talking. "I saw May Seymour this afternoon, Mother. She's going away from Appleton. Says she'll never come back here as long as she lives."

Gloria's mother forgot all about the letter in this exciting piece of news.

"Well, I should just think she would go away! I should think she'd be ashamed to show her face among decent people anywhere," she said, with spirit. "I always told you she was no good didn't I? What was the name of that man she used to run around with, right under her poor husband's nose?"

"Jim Carraway," Gloria answered. "And what do you think? He's going to be married to some little girl just out of school, next fall. The engagement was announced in the paper the other day."

An expression that plainly said "I told you so," flashed across Mrs. Gordon's face. She was "Mrs. Grumpy" herself at that moment.

"I never saw it fail to happen!" she cried. "Men will run around and have a good time with women like she Seymour. But when they're laid down, they marry some girl who still thinks the moon's made of green cheese!"

Gloria laughed. "Mother, you amuse me," she said. "Nobody thinks the moon's made of green cheese, any more. Flappers of seventeen know more than their grandmothers know at seventy."

Mrs. Gordon shook her head. "Of course, if you think that knowing how to shimmy or roll a cigarette is knowing anything, you're right!" she said. "But we old-fashioned women weren't so slow. When I was your age I could run a house all myself—washing, ironing, baking. Everything!"

"Yes, and she used to make all my shirts, too," Gloria's father added, mildly. "And your little dresses, too. Remember how cute she used to look in those pink gingham dresses, Mother?"

Mrs. Gordon nodded. Her blue eyes filled with tears as she looked across the table at Gloria. This was a terrible thing for her... this breach between Gloria and Dick! Like a death in the family, almost.

That this should have happened to her little Gloria! The little daughter for whom she had worked and prayed for twenty years.

Gloria read her mother's thoughts. She carried her dishes out into the kitchen, and then ran upstairs to her tiny bedroom.

With shaking fingers she took open the envelope.

She took out the paper that was in it, a double sheet, folded. That was all.

There wasn't a word written on the paper... not a word! Just the money... the check. As if money were all she wanted!

"So that's the letter I've been having chills and fever about, for the last fifteen minutes!" Nothing but a measly check! she said, ruefully.

She sank down on the edge of her bed, turning the slip of paper over and over in her fingers. Then she looked into the envelope once more... just to make sure that there was no letter from Dick in it. But there was none.

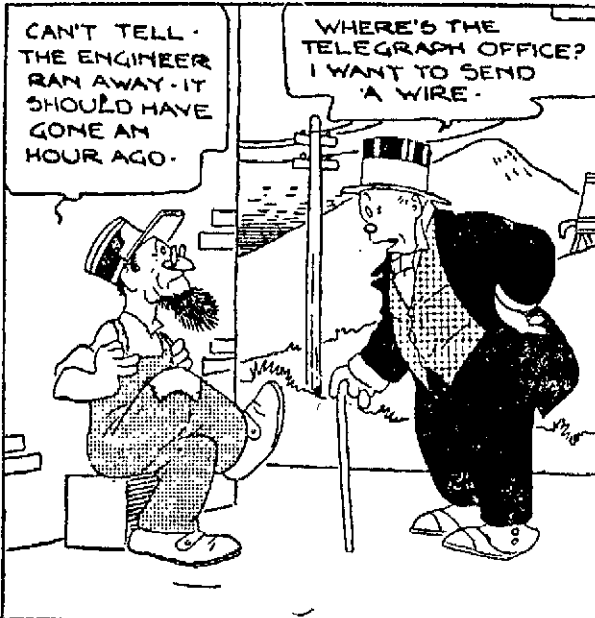

Gloria tore the envelope into tiny pieces, and flung the check down on her dresser. That bit of paper, it was the death blow to her hopes! For until that moment, Gloria had been telling herself that... sooner or later... Dick would want her for his wife again.

RAIN AND WET GROUND DELAY PAVEMENT JOBS

Contractors Expect to Start Work Soon on Pouring As- phalt on N. Lawe-st

Progress in the paving program has been set back many days because of inclement weather last week. Not only was work abandoned during the rain storms, but it is being delayed several days this week until the ground has sufficiently dried again.

Laying of concrete on N. Lawe-st to Wisconsin-ave was completed last Friday and the mixer moved to the S. Lawe-st hill. The machine for laying the black top on the concrete is expected to arrive in the city Thursday or Friday. Approximately 10 working days will be required to lay the top.

Workmen have been busy the last two weeks laying curbing and grading the S. Lawe-st and S. Drew-st hills. The former hill is practically ready for the mixer, most of the grading having been completed last week. Grading will be completed and concrete poured on the hill as soon as the ground has dried. While the hill is being laid to concrete, the S. Drew-st hill will also be graded and made ready. Concrete will be poured on this hill as soon as the S. Lawe-st hill is completed. The surface of both hills will be laid to brick instead of the black top which would be too slippery for a firm hold during the winter months.

Work of widening the S. Onida-st hill between W. Prospect-ave and the canal, which was progressing rapidly, has also been delayed by rain. The entire stretch of sidewalk has been torn up and the necessary grading almost completed. Concrete will be poured on the graded area this week. Approximately 12 feet has been cut off on the southwest intersection of W. Prospect-ave and S. Onida-st.

The south end of S. Superior-st is being filled again. It is the ultimate purpose of the city to bring the level of this street up to the level of the alley which it intersects at the end.

A number of streets have been filled by the city this summer, not only improving the condition of the streets but making them more attractive. Filling has been done on W. Washington-st, Mary-st and Rankin-st between Atlantic and Hancock-sts. Eldorado-st, east of the ravine, and Atlantic-st from Rankin to Sampson-sts were widened.

APPLETON ODD FELLOWS TO ATTEND ENCAMPMENT

The seventy-eighth annual session of the Grand Encampment of Odd Fellows of Wisconsin will be held at Green Bay Oct. 12, 13 and 14 with headquarters at the Hotel Northland. A large representation from Appleton is expected to attend.

The session will open Monday morning with a meeting of the Department Council. This will be followed with a special meeting of the Green Bay lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F. which will be followed by work in the Degree of Friendship.

Another meeting of the department council will be held at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, and at 10 o'clock the same morning the opening session of the Grand Encampment will be held.

The closing meeting will be Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. In the afternoon delegates will be given an auto ride and a visit to the Odd Fellows home.

Build Silos

Two concrete silos are being constructed by out-atime farmers at the present time. One is being built at the Gillespie brothers farm in Grand Chute, and will be 35 feet high and 12 feet wide. John Calhoun is doing the construction work. The other silo is being erected on the Julius Seifert farm town of Greenville. Mr. Seifert already has one concrete silo on his farm.

What Are Your Children Reading?

There is no more important problem for the parents of growing children than the supervision of their reading.

But books for children are difficult to choose. Child standards must be remembered and it is not easy for a grown person to get a child's point of view.

The little ones should be given only books by the great child-loving and child-understanding authors which hold true to the rules which govern good literature and good art.

There are many books that come under the above classification. The best of these are listed in "One Thousand Useful Books" the booklet which this Bureau has for free distribution. Included are books for children under eight, books for boys and girls from eight to twelve, and books for older children.

Frederic J. Haack, Director
The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Theatres And Street Cars Gather Daily Harvest Of Careless Folks' Property

Any theater or street car in Appleton serves in a capacity which most people do not think about, and which is quite different from the purpose for which they are built. They are collection agencies. Just talk to the manager of any of Appleton's movie theaters and you soon will learn that every morning a big haul is made by the janitor when he makes the morning cleanup, and looks under the seats and along the aisles. This haul includes almost every article which can be lost without that person being immediately aware of the loss. In fact one local theater manager said it was a wonder that some men even get out of his theater with their shirts on their back, judging by the large number of articles of wearing apparel forgotten and left in the seats, or articles which have slipped down and fallen under the seats.

A big wooden box filled with lost articles is kept in this theater awaiting scores of owners to come and claim their possessions. And the peculiar part of it is that people who have lost articles of clothing in a movie theater, are very slow to come and call for them.

Men and women will walk into the theatre wearing hats, and most will go out still in possession of their headgear, but there are others who will make their exit minus them, according to one of Appleton's moving picture theater proprietors. He added that cases like this are not rare, and at the present he has a quantity of men and women's hats forgotten by their owners, and which the said owners are not enough concerned about to call for. Women leave just about as many hats in the theater as men do.

Women who enter the theaters after heavy shopping expeditions, loaded down with bundles, invariably leave at least one of the bundles in the theater. Quantities of jewelry are found the most commonly lost article being hair pins.

Boys caps are left in great profusion in Appleton theaters. Great articles of wearing apparel often left in theaters are rubbers, gloves, mittens, scarfs and in a few instances coats and sweaters. Scarfs and rubbers particularly are found under the theater seats in great numbers.

Two reasons are given why people lose so much of their wardrobe in theaters. One is that the picture on the screen is so all absorbing, that people pass out of the movie house in a sort of daze, forgetting entirely any attachments they may have had when they walked in. The other is that objects such as scarfs, gloves, and handkerchiefs easily slip down under the seat and are lost in the darkened room. One local theater manager suggested the idea of running a "trailer" on the screen after each show saying, "remember your belongings" before leaving the theater.

People who lose purses, especially if they drop it during the first show, are sometimes out of luck, for the reason that the next person who occupies the seat may find the purse during an interval when the lights are on or if his foot happens to come in contact with it under the seat. If the finder is honest, as most of them are, the purse will be turned in at the box office, but there have been found and pocketed, and other instances where purses have been robbed of their money content and turned into the box office devoid of greenbacks or other legal tender. In the latter case the poor theater manager is put in a difficult position, as the owner of the purse calls for it, finds it empty, and some such purse owners are absurd enough to think the theater has exacted more money out of them than the regular price of the show. Fortunately cases of such suspicious folks are rare.

A certain movie theater in Appleton seems to collect a huge quantity of gloves during the winter season. Some times they have as many as 40 pairs, with many odds and singles of all sizes, shapes and descriptions. It is said that on several instances women who lost gloves in the theater, go out with a much better pair than they lost. At any rate they have a large selection to choose from, and there is no absolute way of proving that no woman is taking a pair of gloves which she did not have on entering the theater. Women are by far the heaviest losers in theaters. It was said. Other articles left in theaters frequently are school books and loose currency. Dollar bills are frequently picked up, and

Another article very commonly left on street cars is the umbrella. There are quite a number of "rain-sticks" on the traction company shelves at the present time. The man in charge of the lost and found department must take pains to have every applicant for a lost umbrella describe that article very minutely, or the applicant could pick the best umbrella from the assortment, and no one would be any the wiser except the applicant himself.

Other objects at the traction company lost and found department are an overcoat, a salesman's order book, a quantity of rubbers, sweater coat, a baseball bat, and a pair of overalls. One woman, evidently a visiting shopper in Appleton, left her shopping bag on the street car last summer, and among the articles contained was a substantial lunch, not exactly fresh and in a condition to be eaten, but all there nevertheless. There was one purse in the traction company collection, quite devoid of cash, and containing only a nail file, and a small slip of paper on which was written a little story, by the printing of which the amateur poetess will undoubtedly be able to identify the whereabouts of her missing property. The verse is:

Mary had a little lamb,
Her father shot it dead,
And now she takes her lamb to school
Between two hunks of bread.

This is due to the fact that people who give the ticket seller a five dollar or ten dollar bill, carelessly and hastily slip the roll of loose bills they get in change, into their pockets instead of into their purses.

A street car has often been called a common carrier. This term applies not only to the people an electric car carries, but also to the miscellaneous collection of articles belonging to these people, which are often carried after the people have left the car. One has only to look over the queer assortment on the shelves of the lost and found department of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat, and Power Co to realize that a theater is not the only place which reaps a harvest of curious personal effects daily. A street car does almost as well.

Unless quite a number of people call at the traction company office, and claim the lathing suits they have left behind them on street cars, Appleton clothing stores are slated for a heavy season in bathing suit sales next year, or some people will have to forego the pleasure of partaking in the 1926 swimming season. A great number of bathing suits are left in the interurban cars every year by people traveling from the beaches at Lake Winnebago.

Another article very commonly left on street cars is the umbrella. There are quite a number of "rain-sticks" on the traction company shelves at the present time. The man in charge of the lost and found department must take pains to have every applicant for a lost umbrella describe that article very minutely, or the applicant could pick the best umbrella from the assortment, and no one would be any the wiser except the applicant himself.

THE publishers of True Story Magazine are going to pay Fifty Thousand Dollars to three hundred and eleven men and women in amounts ranging from $5,000 to $100 in exchange for true stories. Why not be among them?

Nearly every man and woman has lived at least one story, which has more power for good, than any fiction story ever written.

It is stories of this kind that True Story is ever in search of—true stories of the human heart, stories of struggles against tremendous odds, of success won through sacrifice, stories of endless devotion, of hate that sears the soul, of men ruined through women's wiles, of other men made great through woman's love.

It is because True Story publishes stories like these that each month nearly two million five hundred thousand people buy it.

Why We Are Making This Unusual Offer

Therefore we are making this unprecedented offer of $50,000 for three hundred and eleven stories.

Every person has an equal opportunity in this contest. Remember, the story is the thing that counts—not literary skill. If it contains the human quality we seek it will receive preference over tales more skilfully written.

The November True Story is now on the newsstands. In it there are twenty-two examples of the kind of story most acceptable. While it is not necessary for you to either buy or read True Story in order to enter the contest, a first hand knowledge of the magazine should help you in preparing your story.

Stories may be sent in at any time from now until May 31st, 1926. In submitting manuscripts please carefully observe the rules which appear elsewhere on this page.

Enclose with it a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Every effort will be made to return unavailable manuscripts, but we do not hold ourselves responsible for such returns, and we advise all contestants to retain a copy of manuscripts submitted.

Upon receipt of each manuscript, an acknowledgment will be mailed to the sender.

Awards will be made for the best stories submitted. Stories will be judged from the viewpoint of human experience and interest regardless of literary merit.

The decision of the judges on all manuscripts will be final, there being no appeal from their decision.

The contest is open to everyone except employees of Macfadden Publications and members of their families.

The contest will close at midnight, May 31st, 1926.

Only manuscripts received on or before midnight of May 31st, 1926 will be admitted in the contest.

Any story considered acceptable by the Editors for immediate publication will be paid for at our regular rates and this in no way will affect the judges or their decision.

ASK MOTORCOPS TO AID AGAINST FRUIT THIEVES

Thieves have been at work for the last few nights in Grand Chute apple orchards, and several farmers have reported that some of their trees heavily laden with fruit have been completely stripped. One farmer living near Appleton said he found only a scant half bushel of apples on one of his trees one morning, and that this tree previously was loaded with at least six bushels of fruit. Grand Chute apple growers hope that county motorcops, when they see a car parked on the side of the road at night, will investigate to see if apple thieves are at work.

20 ILLINOIS MEN WILL
INSPECT Y. M. C. A. HERE

A group of 20 businessmen from one of the larger cities of Illinois, led by F. A. Hathaway, state Y. M. C. A. secretary of that state, will visit the Appleton association building on Friday, Oct. 16, as part of an inspection tour of all of the larger "Y" buildings of Wisconsin. The Illinois city represented by the men is in need of a "Y" and Mr. Hathaway, former state secretary of Wisconsin, is conducting them on a special tour of the Badger state. They will attend the final banquet of the local association "three-in-one" campaign Friday evening as guests of the Y. M. C. A. and will move on to Green Bay Saturday to inspect the new building there.

18 PLAYERS IN CLUB TITLE GOLF MATCH THIS WEEK

Three Flights of 16 for Butte des Morts 1925 Championship Get Underway

Forty-eight golfers of Butte des Morts Country club, undaunted by the cold weather, are scheduled to battle around the course this week as the result of the qualifying round in the club championship play held Sunday. The 16 low men were paired for the championship flight, the next 16 will battle for the Class B title and the third 16 will fight for the Class C title. All matches must be played by Sunday so that the remaining rounds of each flight can get underway.

HAVE NO HANDICAPS

The sixteen lowest scores for the flight were shot by J. Gillingham, J. W. Bergstrom, Frank Holbrook, H. V. Tuttrup, E. A. Meyer, L. C. Wesco, J. N. Fisher, W. W. Bergstrom, Mowry Smith, William Rounds, Neale Spoor, E. D. Lindberg, D. P. Steinberg, Robert Zaumeyer, P. R. McCaulla and Heber Pelkey. All matches are 18 holes of match play without handicap. Qualifiers in the second and third flights and pairings for the week in all three flights are:

Championship Flight—J. Gillingham vs. J. W. Bergstrom; Frank Holbrook vs. H. V. Tuttrup; E. A. Meyer vs. P. C. Wesco; J. N. Fisher vs. W. W. Bergstrom; Mowry Smith vs. William Rounds; Neale Spoor vs. E. D. Lindberg; D. P. Steinberg vs. Bob Zaumeyer; P. R. McCaulla vs. Heber H. Pelkey.

Second flight—Walter Gmeiner vs. W. G. Brown; F. V. Heinemann vs. T. T. Hill; Ralph McGowan vs. Leo Schubert; Herbert Woelz vs. R. R. Lally; William E. O'Keefe vs. Ray Kelly; Don Turner vs. H. D. Kuentz; Don Shepard vs. F. J. Sensesbrenner; Matt Schuh vs. A. J. Hall.

Third flight—Glenn Carroll vs. G. J. Herbert; H. E. Landgraf vs. C. J. Carvey; Lester Versteegen vs. Seymour Gmeiner; L. W. Whitmore vs. Luther Graef; Guy Marston vs. Ernst Mahler; Ray Fleweger vs. Harry DeWolf; W. A. Brooks vs. Amos Asdit; A. Burstein vs. W. H. Nelson.

LEWELLEN LOST TO BAY PACKERS

Backfield Star Injures Ankle at Rock Island; Bay Slogan Is "Beat Milwaukee"

Green Bay—"Beat Milwaukee and then get Rock Island." That was the rallying cry of the Green Bay Packers as they resumed their practice sessions at the City stadium this morning.

A second check up on the injured list from the grueling battle with the Independents shows the casualties less serious than was forecast. An X-ray examination by Dr. W. W. Kelly of Lewellen's ankle, which was injured when Little Twix twisted it, does not disclose any broken bones but a bad sprain. Lew won't be in the Milwaukee game and there is some doubt about him playing in the Rock Island fray. The other members of the team who got theirs at Rock Island will be in shape to launch a new winning streak on Sunday at the expense of Milwaukee.

ARE NOT OVERCONFIDENT

There is no sign of overconfidence in the Packers. True enough, the Cardinals handed McGurk's crew an artistic trimming but the fact of the matter is that the Milwaukee club drilled but once before the game in Chicago last Sunday.

This week the Milwaukee players are "camping" in the Cream City and the squad will practice every afternoon. McGurk, the Milwaukee manager, would rather beat the Packers than any other team on his schedule and, in a letter to the Green Bay management, he said that the fans here would see a much improved team over the one that the Cardinals trimmed last Sunday.

Milwaukee has the "makings" of a first class football machine. Hank Gillo can hold his own with the best in the country at full back and he is very disagreeable habit of booting field goals against the Packers. When he played with Racine, he was a thorn in the side of the Big Bay Blues.

Gillo isn't the only luminary in the Milwaukee battle front. Shorty Blair is a slick working quarter and he is an expert passer. Rossler and Kibo Frumm are other stars of the Milwaukee club who played with Racine last year.

BRYAN WITH MILWAUKEE
Red Bryan, a former member of the Bears, is performing in the backfield for Milwaukee along with Mason and Blood, a pair of crack college stars from Minnesota. Neary is far from being the worst end in the world while Barney Traynor at center, was one of the greatest players ever turned out at Colgate. Dunnigan and Miller are two more line men who should give the Packers a lot of trouble.

Tickets for Sunday's game with Milwaukee are now on sale at the usual places about town.

No Dance at Waverly until Saturday and Sunday.

Pirates And Senators All Set For Tough Battles In 1925 World Series Games

Meadows and Smith Oppose Johnson and Ruel in Big Opening Day Struggle

Pittsburg, Pa.—(AP)—The day of action, long awaited, has dawned. Two mighty baseball teams, Washington's Senators and the Pirates of Pittsburg, have come up to the decisive day with injury lurking in each camp, but with a spirit that is calculated to ward off human ailments in the fulfillment of the greatest ambition any team can know—winning of the world's championship. A youngster of 28, already veteran of the annual classic, leads a squad that has survived title fire against many fields and a club that boasts great veterans as well as brilliant youngsters.

RIGHT HANDERS START

Stanley Harris and Bill McKech-nie, managers of Washington and Pittsburg, respectively, have expressed their confidence in the outcome and have named two right handers who are among baseball's best for the opening engagement. Walter (Barney) Johnston, tall, raw-boned mainstay of the Senator's staff for a score of years, will enter the contest with an enemy born of heart rending reverses as well as magnificent victory against the Giants a year ago.

Opposing him is the only bespectacled roundman of the modern day, Lee Meadows a big man with a powerful right arm, always cleaning his glasses when danger appears. Meadows is a constant help to the youngsters in the infield, comforting in error and praising in exceptional play.

There have been no overnight change in the lineups for opening day. Harris announcing Ruel behind the bat Judge, himself Peckinpough and Eluege in the infield and an outer defense comprising a fitting trio which will match any in any league—Goslin, Rice and Joe Harris, with McNeely, one of the powerful stars of Washington's 1924 victory in reserve.

McKech-nie depends upon Smith as reserve. Grantham, Moore, Wright and Traynor in the infield, and Barnhart, Carey and Cuyler out beyond. Experts have predicted one of the greatest outfielding field clashes of all times, for Carey Cuyler, Rice, and Goslin are superb in every department of the game, very fast men all. Barnhart and Harris are two heavy hitters but lack the leg motion possessed by their comrades.

TO SEAT 45,000

That Forbes field with its newly and hurriedly constructed stands will be filled to its capacity of 45,000 persons cannot be doubted. Every reserved seat has been sold, with many resold. Last night a man of 60 years held his place at the ticket booth to be the first to enter the 6,000 seats in centerfield. The line numbered hundreds at daybreak.

Both teams went to the field for practice Tuesday, the Senators working for almost two full hours under threatening clouds. Every eligible man was in uniform.

The Pirates were ready to take the field when the enemy of Wednesday had departed but the skies opened and canvas was rushed onto the infield.

Pitching selections for the classic, in order of appearance would seem to be Johnson, Coveleskie and Ruether for the Senators against Meadows, Aldridge and Yde for the Pirates.

Today's probable lineup:
Washington—Rice, cf; S. Harris, 2b; Goslin, lf; Judge, 1b; Eluege, 3b; J. Harris, first; Peckinpough, ss; Ruel, c; Johnson, p.

Pittsburg—Moore, 2b; Carey, cf; Cuyler, rf; Barnhart, 1b; Wright, ss; Traynor, 2b; Grantham, 1b; Smith, c; Meadows, p.

Umpires—at plate—Egler (N); First base—Morarty (A); Second base—McCormick (N); Third base—Owens (A).

George Stallings at Rochester, N. Y. denies reports that he is to manage Cubs.

OREGON COACH

DICK SMITH

He's the new coach of the University of Oregon football team. A former star at the same institution and later at Columbia, where he gained All-America recognition, Smith is expected to turn out one of the best eleven northwesterners have had in some time. Smith coached at Columbia a few seasons ago.

ARTILLERY BAND TO PLAY AT P-C SERIES

When baseball fans of Appleton and vicinity gather at the Y. M. C. A. tennis courts Saturday afternoon to witness the fourth game of the 1925 world series between the Washington Americans and Pittsburg Nationals as portrayed on the Post-Crescent Playograph, they will be greeted with another feature of a real honest-to-goodness title series. For the 120th Field Artillery band, one of the nation's finest, has kindly consented to live up proceedings by playing "between innings." Friends of the Post-Crescent who come to see the big classic will also be entertained with a concert by their favorite band. Ed Mumm, band leader, will have all his boys in trim to give out the music which made the band famous throughout the country.

"HAIR-GROOM"

Keeps Hair Combed, Glossy Well-Groomed all Day

"Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which costs only a few cents a pair at any drug store. Millions use it because it gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to the hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions. Even stubborn, unruly or shampooped hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is greaseless; also helps grow thick, heavy, lustrous hair.

COLONELS, ORIOLES TO BREAK DEADLOCK

Baltimore—Play in the junior world series will be resumed at Oriole park here Wednesday afternoon when the Louisville Colonels, champions of the American Association meet the Baltimore Orioles, seven times International League pennant winners, in the fifth game of the series.

Wednesday's game will break the deadlock existing between the seekers of minor league honors. The Colonels

CITY WILL HAUL DIRT OFF NEW PAVED STREETS

Residents of N. Lawe and other streets which are being paved will be saved the expense of hauling surplus dirt if they will fix their boulevards now, according to announcement of won the first two games, the easterners taking the other pair of contests, played at Louisville.

R. D. Hackworthy, city street commissioner.

As soon as the paving is done, city teams will be dispatched to these streets to haul away left over dirt, or to supply an additional amount where a boulevard needs it. Property owners are advised to grade their boulevards now and put the left-over dirt on a pile in their driveway approach or somewhere else. If this cannot be done, they are advised to do the work immediately after the asphalt top is laid, and then place the dirt in one or two piles on the pavement. It should not be thrown promiscuously ## on the street, because the city will take only that which is left in a convenient manner. This ought to be done before the street is opened to traffic, Mr. Hackworthy says.

It is expected in this way that everybody will fix up the boulevards immediately so the street will be attractive the moment it is paved. No dirt will be lying around until spring either, it is said.

There was a line all night outside Forbes field, Pittsburg, for the big sporting event there Wednesday.

DRUNK ARRESTED FOR ANNOYING PEDESTRIANS

John Gelger, 621 W. Summerat, pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk and disorderly and was fined $5 and costs in municipal court Tuesday morning.

He was arrested Monday morning by Officer Rankin and Delton on E. Wisconsin-ave where he was found hailing pedestrians and having a general good time in offending them.

BACK OF A GOOD NAME

Rarely in manufacturing history has a name entrenched itself so firmly in the confidence of the entire world as the name Dodge Brothers.

Everywhere and to everyone this name means but one thing: a product built honestly of the best available materials and sold at a just price.

Behind this product, this price and this enviable reputation lie certain impressive and fundamental facts.

So important is a knowledge of these facts to the motor car buyer that Dodge Brothers, Inc., have determined to publish them, from time to time, until every newspaper reader in America may be presumed to have read them:

Dodge Brothers, during the past eleven years, have built and sold more than one million four hundred thousand motor cars—and more than 90% of these cars are still in service. This record requires no comment. It stands impressively alone in motor car history.

It has never been Dodge Brother's policy to build yearly models. When an improvement, that is really an improvement, is discovered, it is made at once. Their slogan, "Constantly Improved But No Yearly Models" is familiar the world over.

Dodge Brothers build one chassis and only one. This policy materially lowers manufacturing cost. It also enables Dodge Brothers engineers to concentrate their entire time and thought on the betterment of this one type.

Dodge Brothers have never had an "off year" or an "off car." This is because they have never used the public as a testing ground for "new models" or lowered the quality of their product in the slightest degree. Every change has been an improvement on the original design.

Dodge Brothers pioneered in building the first all-steel open car and the first all-steel closed car. These epochal developments have saved Dodge Brothers owners many millions of dollars by materially prolonging motor car life and by effecting marked economies in manufacture. This construction has also reduced incalculably the danger from accident and fire.

Dodge Brothers sell directly through their dealers to the purchaser. There are no sectional distributing agencies to increase the cost of distribution and the cost of the car.

Dodge Brothers have never given so-called "free service." The car is sold at a fair and honest price. Nothing is added to this original purchase price to pay for service that the owner may never need.

Dodge Brothers Dealers were pioneers in unanimously adopting the flat rate service system. By this system, the owner knows in advance what any service job will cost. There are no unpleasant surprises in his bills.

The sturdiness and long life of Dodge Brothers Motor Car is reflected in its resale value. Comparatively few Dodge Brothers Motor Cars are advertised in the resale columns of the newspapers. The values they bring testify unanswerably to their goodness—and the public's belief in their goodness.

The time has passed when transient novelties can lead a thoughtful buyer to overlook the great essentials of motor car worth. A few of these essentials, outlined above, go far to explain why Dodge Brothers name is accepted, the world over, as the hall mark of dollar-for-dollar value.

Wauwatosa Congregational Church Is First in Conference Contest

Wauwatosa Congregational church was awarded the Beale loving cup at the annual young people's banquet of the Wisconsin Congregational conference at the First Methodist church Tuesday evening. The church stood first in the state in Sunday school standards.

Appleton First Congregational church won the cup a year ago for having the most efficient school, but descended to second place this year. Third place is held by River Falls Congregational church.

The cup was donated by Dr. Charles Beale of Milwaukee and is given to the church with a Sunday school which comes nearest to what is known as the Pilgrim standard in its work.

Presentation of the cup was made by Neil Hansen of Whitewater, chairman of the award committee.

Ben J. Rohan, city superintendent of schools, will be one of the principal speakers on the opening day's program of the 1925 convention of the Wisconsin Wisconsin Teachers' Association, which will be held at Oshkosh, Thursday and Friday. The Thursday program will be divided into two parts, elementary school and high school work. Mr. Rohan is scheduled to speak on Teacher Growth While in Service on the former part of the program.

Among the other speakers on the Thursday's programs are H. F. Klitz, mayor of Oshkosh, J. Guy Fowlkes of the University of Wisconsin college of education, and J. A. Brown, president of Oshkosh National School. Other local mentors on the two-day program are Miss Ruth Mielke, high school librarian, who is head of the convention library department, and Miss Catherine Spence of the high school home economics department. Practically every other local teacher will remain in the city and will attend the Wisconsin State Teachers convention in Milwaukee in November.

Tata owns a small farm in the wilds near Chaparral, Mexico, and was brought back to this country by Oliver Lefarge, right, above, and Franz Blom, leaders of the university expedition into Central America. Lefarge has learned the Mayan dialect and will question Tata for two months at the university.

William E. Ireland Superintends George Reform School Where He Was Confined

Alanta, Ga., (AP)—Sentenced five years ago to an indeterminate term in the state reformatory as a thoroughly "bad" boy, William E. Ireland is today superintendent of the situation and is expending every effort to help his youthful inmates mend their ways and become good citizens.

Ireland's case is surprising enough when you consider that in five years he rose from prisoner to superintendent but when you learn that the reformatory, under his guidance, has become one of the model schools of the nation, it becomes fairly amazing.

Ireland was sentenced to the reformatory, which is located at Mill Creek, Ga., and known as the Georgia Training School for Boys, after a long series of boyish pranks and misdeeds. He found a woman in charge, Mrs. Orlan Mansson, and she worked wonders with him, convincing him that delinquency was only another name for weakness, she soon had him showing all the strength and courage of young manhood.

He soon became a trusty. Then he was made superintendent of the reformatory farm, to become Miss Mansson's secretary a little later.

Then Miss Mansson died and Ireland was elected superintendent of the institution, not from sentimental reasons, but because they were convinced that he was the ideal person to lead all the "bad boys" at the reformatory to the path of good citizenship.

Ireland has installed many changes. First of all there are no guards at the reformatory. The windows are not barred. The boys govern and discipline themselves through an honor system. They are taught how to work they are allowed to come and go to the town on frequent occasions. They are given training that will enable them to live honestly when they return to their homes.

And this new system works!

To begin with, Ireland won't admit there is such a thing as a "bad" boy. He understands boys, unhealthy boys, neglected boys—but not bad ones.

"There is a way to every boy's heart," he says—remember, he isn't much more than a boy himself.

"There's plenty of goodness in every boy here, and it's my job to bring out what's best in them."

Occasionally some lad runs away. No guard is sent after him. Two of his fellows go find him and reason with him, winding up by asking him to return of his own free will. And so far, every single one has done so!

CAN'T HATE MEN AND STILL BE A REAL CHRISTIAN

Dr. Davis Scores Race Hatred in Talk to Congregational Conference

Meaning of the gospel and its worth in the modern world was outlined by Oona S. Davis, president of Chicago Theological Seminary, who delivered the principal address Tuesday evening at the school's 55th annual meeting of the Wisconsin Congregational Conference which is convening at the First Congregational church of this city. The conference will close Thursday noon.

He defined the gospel as Christ's teachings of truth, and showed that it bears directly on our lives as physical beings in our moral and social life.

"Personality is one of the greatest assets a person can have," he said, "and is secured through the teachings of the gospel. A follower of Jesus is one who never denies another, for a true Christian cannot despise another and walk in the way of Jesus Christ. If you are going to live as Jesus wants you to, you will not despise any of your fellow men."

SCORES RACE HATRED
The speaker scored race hatred as one of the most detestable of human traits and branded it as one of the most un-Christianlike characteristics of the human race.

Race or color, he declared, should make no difference in our estimation of others. He showed that race hatred was contrary to the teachings of Christ and should be abolished if we would live as Christians.

"No individual can be perfect alone," he said, "and all of us are necessary to each other."

That religion has back of morality and that the two cannot be divorced was shown by the speaker. Religion teaches morality and it is a known fact that where religion does not exist, neither does morality, he stated.

Dr. Davis said that the greatest challenge to intellectual life is the gospel. It makes people think of God, man, life, hope, comfort and immortality, all subjects of deep complexity.

"The World's Need of the Gospel" was the subject of an address by the Rev. Herbert A. Studebaker, pastor of the Second Congregational church, Beloit.

"There is precious little enthusiasm in any of our churches and consequently very little thought of religion among people," he said. "If people could accept the God as revealed in Christ, they would be made over again."

"Knowledge of the gospel is no limited among people that there appears a grave danger of all sense of God being lost. This can only be corrected by the gospel, for the gospel brings men to eagerly accept God."

The evening program at the church was preceded by a young peoples' banquet at the First Methodist church. Rev. Robert W. Gammon presided. Following the banquet five addresses were given by young people of the conference, all of the subject tending to do with the theme of "Building Christian Loyalty." The speakers were: Dorothy A. Smith of Burlington, Josephine Encham of Appleton, Robin Ralph of Pelee, Roder E. of Whitewater and Lucille Roselius of Sheboygan.

The after-dinner program was concluded by an address by Rev. Robert W. Bantow, pastor of the First Congregational church at Madison. He spoke on "Crabbed Age and Youth," and defended the modern youth with all his faults and frivolities.

SAVE FORESTS IN WISCONSIN, PLEA OF FARM LEADER

Well-Balanced Development of State Essential Prosperity, Linns Told

A sound program of development for northern Wisconsin contemplates not only the reclamation of cut-over lands for agriculture but a reforestation program on lands unsuited for farming and protection of forests and game so that Wisconsin always will be an attraction to tourists, John D. Jones, Jr., commissioner of agriculture for Wisconsin, declared in an address before Appleton Lions club Wednesday night. Mr. Jones pointed to the danger of unbalanced development in Wisconsin and said that true prosperity depends upon an industry so diversified that periods of depression will not affect the entire commonwealth at one time.

"New England states, which developed their industrial life at the expense of agriculture, are severe sufferers when business is poor and they are now seeing their cotton mills and their shoe factories moving to the south and to the west where they will be closer to the sources of raw material supply. Western states which are predominantly devoted to agriculture suffer severely when the price of farm produce is low, so it behooves us to develop all our resources so that we may never be entirely without a market for our products."

TOO MANY FARMS
Mr. Jones explained the reason for the depression in farm prices by declaring that the farm plant of the United States already produces more food and farm materials than the country consumes and as a result there is a glutted market and prices are reduced.

"The department of agriculture cannot consistently recommend that all the cut-over lands of northern Wisconsin be converted into farm lands when there already is sufficient farm land in the country to produce more than we need. The better condition of the farmer this year is due largely to the fact that there has been a large reduction in the production of farm products so that the demand and supply is more nearly equal and farmers are receiving better prices."

A program of reforestation in which the federal and state governments and private interests will have a part is necessary, Mr. Jones said. "The United States has been prodigal in its use of our natural resources but we have come to the point where we must prepare for our future needs," Mr. Jones declared.

The commissioner declared that it is possible that Wisconsin will lose its paper industry, now turning out a product valued at $120,000,000 a year, unless steps are taken to maintain a supply of raw materials in the state. The mills may move to Canada or to the south because they will be nearer the forests if Wisconsin does not see to it that timber is grown within the state, he said.

Whittall rugs are so well known for their beauty, their fine wearing qualities, and their modest prices that they are favorites among discriminating rug buyers. You cannot make a mistake in buying a Whittall. The quality of the wool is the best to be obtained in the world, the weaving so perfect that one can scarcely imagine how it could be improved. See these fine rugs at Pettibone's.
